Chicano-Led Pray-in at Mary's Help Quiet

A quiet "pray-in" was staged by some 100 blacks and chicanos outside Mary's Help Hospital in Daly City Sunday. The group was protesting what they claim is discrimination in the treatment of poor people in the community. Led by the Hermanos Latinos, sponsors of the prayer vigil, the participants gathered around the main flag pole in front of the hospital starting at 2 p.m. Shelley Fernandez, chairman of the Hermanos Latinos Health Committee, said the hospital has received some $1,883,625 in federal funds under the Hill-Burton Act but has failed to comply with the government to provide "a reasonable volume of free care for the poor of the community."

The hospital does not accept patients who are unable to pay cash or have sufficient medical coverage, she said. Hospital authorities refused to meet with the group Sunday or to comment on the charges. Earlier, hospital administrator Rex Chase said the matter is under study. Miss Fernandez said her group wanted to meet with the religious order that runs the hospital — the Daughters of Charity. The sisters refused to talk to protesters. Besides minority and representation by the poor, the Hermanos Latinos have asked for four free beds at the hospital and a free neighborhood clinic in "old" Daly City.

Chase said the requests were being evaluated and attempts were now under way to determine the need for a clinic in the eastern section of Daly City. The hangup, according to Chase, is: "What is reasonable, what is free care, and what is a reasonable volume of free care?"

The Hermanos Latinos "pray-in" was supported by the NAACP, Welfare Rights Organization, CITY, Blacks & Browns Organized to Meet the Necessary Demands (BOND).

Fight on Poverty Born Amid Hostility

By VIRGIL WILSON

THE WAR on Poverty had a shaky start in San Mateo County. Although the federal Economic Opportunity Act was adopted in 1964, no move was made to get federal funding for anti-poverty projects here until two years later.

"When the 1964 act was passed," recalls Edward R. Becks, executive director of the County Economic Opportunity Commission, "there was little thought that affluent San Mateo County would have a poverty program unless it were recreational in nature. The War on Poverty began in a very hostile atmosphere."

"But," he adds, "it has been able to bring about a considerable amount of change and bring a backward county, as far as human relations are concerned, up to date and out front."

If there was any doubt about poverty in the county in 1964, there should be none now. The latest census figures show that nearly 15,000 families, more than 11 per cent of the county total, have annual incomes of less than $4,000 a year, which is the EOC poverty level for a family of four.

EOC officials point out that because the County Board of Supervisors was slow getting into the picture, the county lost out on more than $1 million in federal funds. Furthermore, they say, the effect of the slow start (Please See Page 2, Column 1)

CSM 'Dress Code' Clarified Police Advisors Made the Decision

Clarification of recent rules on the carrying of a gun on the College of San Mateo campus and the wearing of a uniform by police officer students has been made today by San Carlos Police Chief Robert Wasserman.

Wasserman, chairman of the seven-member Police Science Advisory Board at the college, said a recent rule regarding dress of officers on campus was actually "a lack of a dress code."

The decision to have officers attending the Police Officers' Standards and Training (POST) classes at CSM dress in attire other than uniforms was made by the advisory board to the college—not the other way around, according to Wasserman.

"We were thinking of the convenience and comfort of these officers," Wasserman said.

He said the college and board were not imposing a dress code on the 38 officers attending eight-hour-long sessions (a total of 360 hours altogether).

"Rather, I think it is a lack of a dress code," he said.

On the question of why officers were told not to carry their weapons on campus, Wasserman said the ruling discouraged this practice. However it was not considered a mandate.

Making up this advisory board are five county police chiefs, one assistant sheriff and one police captain.

The original story broke when some unhappy North County policemen voiced their dislike of the spring semester ruling.

They noted that during the fall semester wearing of uniforms was optional and there was no mention of weapons.

Daly City Police Chief Roland Petrocchi, while also voicing concern over the "no gun" matter, said he went along with the recommendation for the time being.

But what concerns those policemen opposing the dress question is: "When is a policeman off duty?"

Most are taught they are on duty and ready for public service around the clock.

"That's a matter of individual concern," Wasserman explained.

Four years ago when the same matter arose at CSM and the officers revolted against the idea, suddenly there were no classrooms available for the mandatory POST courses on campuses.

Since that time classrooms have been found for them on campus.

BART Link to Cost $90,000,000

By FRANK LAPIERRE

The cost of a rapid transit link between Daly City and the San Francisco Airport will reach nearly $90 million an engineering report made public today indicates.

The voluminous report on route and station locations was submitted to the San Francisco Airport Access Project Board of Control for study at their monthly meeting today.

No action on the recommendations contained in the 80 page outline is expected until the Board's next meeting February 28.

There were few surprises in the report. Authors of the report were quick to point out that all recommendations were flexible and modifications could be made up until the final design stage of the project.

Alternate designs for track routings in the South San Francisco and San Bruno areas were offered rather than a single proposal.

This is in keeping with the current attitude maintained by both cities regarding rapid transit.

South San Francisco has already decided it would insist on a subway system through its city.

San Bruno, on the other hand, has indicated it has reservations about any penetration of the rapid transit line.

In Daly City the removal of some nine homes on the west side of Niantic avenue will be necessary to allow passage of the trains on an aerial structure to align with existing Southern Pacific right-of-way.

Within four blocks from the Daly City BART station on its southward run the track will drop into a cut, passing under Westlake Avenue.

Efforts have been made, according to engineers, to hold noise to an absolute minimum near homes, businesses, schools and recreation areas.

The line will alternate between a subway, at-grade level or aerial as local conditions dictate.

More Natwick Charges

Police Summoned By Board to Keep Order

By WILL THOMAS

South San Francisco Unified School District's Board Chairman called police to help maintain order after he limited discussion Monday on the case of a suspended teacher.

There was no violence, however, when Chairman Leo Padreddi asked that a young woman be ejected from the board's meeting room.

The teacher, Clark Natwick, was suspended last October 26 on charges that he allegedly loaned a book, "The Inner City Mother Goose," to a 12-year-old boy. The book contained an obscene word.

Natwick supporters swelled the board meeting crowd to nearly 200 persons who were pressing for dismissal of the charges. Trustees, however, revealed an amended, expanded complaint against Natwick. It had been completed by the district attorney's office and signed Monday.

Padreddi's control problems came after new charges were read to the public and he decided to limit discussion to the two persons whose names were included on the written agenda.

This action angered several young people. Their comments brought a halt to proceedings. There were calls for "democracy" and chides of "fascists," directed at the board.

"Are you running a school or a jail?" asked one young man, who was cautioned by Padreddi, "Don't get me mad, son."

A young woman set off Padreddi's temper after she called the board "fascists." When ruled "out of order" by Padreddi, she glaringly informed him: "I don't give a . . . if I'm out of order!"

Padreddi called for South San Francisco police to remove her from the room. She apparently left of her own accord. Police stayed and the meeting continued.

The complaint against Natwick, who lives in Pacifica, charges that "The Inner City Mother Goose" by Eve Merriam is "inappropriate and unsuitable for seventh grade pupils in that some of the contents of said book may have a harmful effect upon a child of such tender age and immaturity, and that some portions thereof could possibly incite such readers to commit violent and antisocial acts to which reference is made in said book."

Examples were listed.

The new complaint alleges Natwick failed to develop and to follow adequate lesson plans in his English classes during 1969-70, that his manner of evaluating pupils' performance "did not conform to the standards of the teaching profession," that he "used his position as a teacher to recruit pupils to participate in unauthorized field trips to be taken on Saturdays . . ." and that he was involved in two Coastside confrontations with police.

The complaint charged that in Pacifica, in 1968, Natwick's "conduct incited and inflamed the other people assembled (at Linda Mar Shopping Center), encouraging them to engage in similar delaying, obstructing and hindering tactics, and that, such conduct on the part of defendant contributed to the then prevailing atmosphere of mob violence."

It was alleged, also, that in December of 1969, Natwick "obstructed and delayed police officers" during a Miramar Street confrontation.

One of Natwick's supporters was South San Francisco High School instructor Frank Doorfield, who objected to extraction of portions of the text of books rather than its complete text.

He cited Chaucer's Canterbury Tales, reading passages that might be construed as objectionable to certain age groups.

He said obscenities also were found in other books on the shelves of the Alta Loma Intermediate School Library.

Mrs. Clark Natwick said the charges against her husband were not correctly stated in the complaint. She said they were not as severe as indicated.

Judge Hears San Bruno Recall Case

By BOB PETERSON

A decision is expected later this week on whether there will be a recall election in San Bruno on March 2.

Judge Mel Cohn Tuesday morning took the matter under submission after listening to oral presentations from both sides.

In the meantime activity surrounding the recall movement continues at an accelerated pace.

Recall Committee Chairman Larry Mobley issued a press release raising the question of "high finances" behind the anti-recall lawsuits.

"The anti-recallers have been yelling that we have been supported by dirt haulers, apartment builders and large developers," said Mobley.

"But they (anti-recallers) have failed to explain where the $2,000 is coming from to finance expensive legal action to stop the recall election."

Mobley cited "knowledgeable sources" for the estimated $2,000 figure. He said the Recall Committee has received only $2,675 from 207 contributors.

"Almost all of it came from concerned citizens of San Bruno," said Mobley. "The balance came from city employees and a few downtown merchants."

Mobley said, "the anti- (Please See Page 2, Column 3)

Boys' Club Director Denies Aide Lost Job Over Petition

The former program director of the South San Francisco Boys' Club claims he was fired because he permitted his name to be used in a newspaper advertisement supporting reinstatement of suspended teacher Clark Natwick.

Keen B. Turner, father of four children whose ages range from 18 months to seven years, said today he was dismissed last Thursday after four years with the South San Francisco Boys' Club.

Turner, who lives in Oakland, said that Norman Trout, Boys' Club director in South San Francisco, called him in and asked if he had signed a petition urging Natwick's reinstatement. Turner said he had. Turner quoted Trout as saying, "You've lost your job on account of it."

Turner said Trout told him the board of directors of the club had made the decision.

Director Trout denied Turner's claim.

He said there was "no direct relationship to his signing of the petition and his dismissal."

There were "some problems," Trout said, "that were not boy-related." He declined to elaborate.

Trout explained that Turner could take his grievance to the Boys' Club Personnel Committee.

Turner said there was "a good response from boys" after his dismissal and that they boycotted the club on Friday.

Turner explained that he had first met Natwick when both had taken groups of boys on the Walk for Mankind through Golden Gate Park late last year.

He signed his name to a petition urging Natwick's reinstatement when approached by some of Natwick's students, who also belonged to the Boys' Club, Turner said.

Otherwise, Turner said, he was not involved.

He was not solicited for money for the advertisement in which his name appeared in a north county weekly newspaper, Turner added.

Cease, Desist Question Up to BRWQCB

The question of possible cease and desist orders against the cities of Half Moon Bay and Pacifica will be up to the Bay Region Water Quality Control Board in its February 25 meeting.

A hearing panel met at Half Moon Bay city hall last night and took several hours of testimony from officials of both cities about their alleged violations of WQCB pollution standards. The three-member panel will present its findings to the full board for the decision.

Half Moon Bay, threatened with a possible cutoff of new sewer connections unless it does something, has been working quickly since first threatened with the embargo January 14.

Consulting Engineer Ted Canis last night presented a plan for a "waste stabilization pond" at the treatment plant at Francis Beach which could be operational in six to eight weeks and would remove most of the pollutants for which the city has been charged now.

Canis also proposed a determined effort to find a leak in the outfall line on the beach (which the city has been searching for since 1967), and im-

What's in a Name?

Plenty, According to D.C. Residents

What's in a name?

Plenty, if you happen to live on a street in Daly City whose name the city wants to change.

The new Cabrillo Freeway cuts through several streets in the southwest section of the city leaving some streets in what the city staff felt was confusing.

With a sweep of the pen the City Fathers felt all could be smoothed out.

Petitions signed by residents of the Manzanita - Higate - Castillejo area attested to the fact that the people felt differently.

Not only would the sudden name changes hinder postal deliveries, one man declared, it would confuse taxi drivers and friends trying to locate homes on road maps.

It would take several years to update local road maps given away at service stations, another man appearing before the council said, not to mention he would have to change his driver's license, credit cards and letterheads.

When city staff recommended a portion of Higate Drive be renamed Serramonte Boulevard to connect the two streets, one upset resident suggested Serramonte Boulevard be renamed "Higate Drive."

Councilman Frank Pacelli asked the city staff to study the matter further in the light of the protests and make their recommendations next month.

The proposed street name changes were sent back to staff for re-evaluation.

BART Tax Estimate

It might cost San Mateo County $52 million plus a 48-cent per $100 assessed value property tax to become annexed to the Bay Area Rapid Transit District.

Those estimates were contained in a letter, made public today, from BART manager to the district's directors.

The letter noted that the state law setting up BART would require a property tax equal to other counties in the district and a down payment to cover the new area's share of control facilities which were constructed for the entire system.

Assistant manager Lawrence Dahms estimated the down payment at $52 million.

BART directors are interested in the annexation because they want to build a rail link from this city to San Francisco International Airport which is in San Mateo County.

San Mateo County supervisors declined to enter the district when it was formed and have rejected a proposal that they set up their own district. There has been no official interest in the county in joining BART.

BART is building a rail system connecting San Francisco, Alameda and Contra Costa counties.

is still being felt. Other counties that jumped in early and got their anti-poverty programs established continue to receive a larger share of federal money.

"The county may have lost money because it didn't get in right away," says George Riley, administrative assistant in the office of County Mgr. M. D. Tarshes, "but it has been a better program because, when we did get in, it was tied to county government."

Some counties that got in early and assigned administration of their War on Poverty programs to private non-profit organizations are still having problems, Riley notes, "while we've had a very stable program." The county board here, in delegating powers to EOC, retained the right of review.

Riley, who preceded Becks as EOC administrator, adds this: "The EOC continues to suffer, however, from not being accepted as a legitimate responsibility of local government. Although it is sponsored by the county and its directors are appointed by the Board of Supervisors, it is still considered by many to be outside the normal county function."

"Nobody ever looks at it as being a legitimate county agency, and that breeds suspicion and criticism. I'm tired of it being considered a sort of bastard child of the federal government."

John S. Rosselli, a former Redwood City mayor and former charter member of the EOC board, expresses an opinion that local supervisors still "tend to shy away from the problem."

"There is a general feeling that the board is negative, that they feel that poverty doesn't really exist here," Rosselli says. "They should get more involved, check out some of the problems themselves, get out and tour the target areas. The War on Poverty needs more aggressive leadership."

Rosselli criticized the county board for refusing to join with Redwood City to help finance construction of a community center in the Redwood City target area.

"It is a matter of priorities," he asserts. "The poor see that the county was able to put up a fancy new library in Woodside, for example, and wonder why they couldn't do the same for the poverty area of Redwood City. There is quite a bit of resentment about that."

A word of praise for county government is offered by War on Poverty administrators, however. An official at the regional headquarters of the Office of Economic Opportunity states that San Mateo County "has been very helpful," both in contributions of cash and "in kind" services of county employees.

"The county has been very cooperative," Becks adds. "By comparison, this county shows more concern than many other counties."

proved metering, analysis and recording of sewage flows.

Improvements in these latter phases have been made in the last few days, he said. Cost of the new 8-acre pond would be "less than $20,000" which the city can afford, he went on.

Panel member Ercole Caroselli asked Mayor Albert J. Adreveno if the city "would be ready to ban connections for six to eight weeks?"

Adreveno said he would have to ask the council but that he had issued an order recently banning "bulk" connections. There also had been no connections permitted since January 20, he said.

There is only one subdivision, the Sea Haven of 105 units, nearly ready for building now, the panel was told.

Pacific Director of Public Works David Thompson made a long defense of his city's waste treatment, pointing out that plans are proceeding for a new treatment plant and that other measures can and have been taken to combat pollution at Linda Mar Beach.

A crowd of 75 persons tried to get into the meeting last night, but many had to stand outside.

Mark Savage Is Appointed

Mark Savage, business assistant for the Lugana Salada School District, has been appointed the City of Pacifica's finance director.

City Manager James Swayne said Savage will assume his new duties February 22.

Savage, a Pacifica resident for 2½ years, previously was assistant contractual relations supervisor for the Los Angeles Unified School District and also formerly was an assistant manager of Crocker Citizens National Bank and Security First National Bank, both in Los Angeles.

Savage, a member of the city's Highway and Transportation Committee, has been active in community affairs, including the Red Cross and the Youth Service Bureau.

recallers will spend over three times as much money as the Recall Committee. Yet they have had no solicitation for funds from the citizens of the community."

In another press release, Orville Wycoff, former chairman of the Recall Committee, responded to statements by Mayor Neil Christal.

Wycoff, candidate to replace Mayor Christal on the San Bruno city council in the scheduled March 2 recall election, has charged the mayor with making false statements on a recent television news show.

According to a press release by Wycoff, the mayor charged that petitions collected by Wycoff contained forgeries.

"The mayor was deliberately making statements for which he knew there was no foundation," said Wycoff.

"He implied that I committed a crime without specifying what that crime was. He deliberately left the impression that the deputy district attorney was about to launch an investigation to support his charges. He made all these statements fully aware that he had no justification for making them. He uttered falsehoods and was aware that he was doing so," said Wycoff.

The candidate offered copies of the text of the newscast to back his rebuttal. He also said he revisited 36 of the individuals who originally signed petitions he circulated.

"Without exception, each has certified that the petitions were as they originally signed them. Each individual signed again a form attesting to the validity of the signatures, address and date," said Wycoff. He offered copies of these, too.

Wycoff said the mayor's report was "another example of irresponsibility." He challenged Christal to admit he made the charges without basis in fact.

"Charges of criminal conduct are not privileged," said Wycoff. "I too can seek the protection of the courts if Mr. Christal becomes to careless about his facts." (Related Story, Page 21)

LARRY DAHMS, assistant general manager of the Bay Area Rapid Transit District and project manager for the San Francisco Airport Access Project, will be guest speaker at the Daly City-Colma Chamber of Commerce meeting on February 18.

DISCUSSING the next ecology move for San Bruno are Frank J. Prisco Jr., president of the San Bruno Jaycees, and Councilman Ted Long. The pair is planning a glass recycling drive to begin the first of March, covering the entire city and including any glass container. The Jaycees presently conduct a successful paper drive.

Ecology Commission 'Loses' in S. Bruno

San Bruno councilmen on a 3-2 vote Monday rejected a proposal to establish a permanent Environmental Quality Commission.

The voting majority—Mayor Neil Christal and Councilmen George Corey and Maurice Hamilton—said the decision does not mean the group studying the city's environment is disbanded.

Members of the study committee have recently concluded a four-month series of environmental hearings in areas of air, water and space as it affects the city.

The committee brought in numerous experts during those hearings to testify on the impact and what steps might be taken to upgrade environmental quality in San Bruno.

Based on this committee activity, Councilman Ted Long, committee chairman, recommended the council establish a permanent commission.

According to the proposal, the commission would "study with the planning commission all new projects presented to the city to determine their environmental impact."

Long said that for the commission to be effective it "must have full powers to set guidelines, determine compliance, and to deny or grant building, use permits and variances." The commission would serve

Glass Drive for Ecology in San Bruno

A glass recycling drive is the next ecology endeavor planned in San Bruno.

The drive will follow much the same pattern as the successful paper drive, according to Councilman Ted Long.

Long and Frank J. Prisco Jr., president of the San Bruno Jaycees, explained the planned drive at a Monday luncheon.

The plan is to have the first pickup made approximately March 1.

Residents are asked to separate glass bottles into a separate container. If the resident wishes to break the glass there will be a need for three separate boxes—one for each color of glass, clear, amber, and green. Long and Prisco pointed out that it would be preferable if the glass containers are kept unbroken.

Each area of San Bruno will have a Saturday pickup approximately every four to eight weeks. Residents will be asked to bring their bottles and jars to a depot in their neighborhood, or place them on the curb.

It was pointed out that the Jaycees are presently designing a container that can be installed on the back of a pickup truck for easy, safe and economic transport.

Group Replies to a Letter From Griffith

Members of the San Bruno Administrative Employees Association have responded through an attorney to Councilman Dick Griffith's controversial letter to church pastors.

In a letter, which councilmen filed, Attorney John D. Hedger said that "unless specific charges are made and the appropriate evidence brought forth within 15 days, we must assume that the charges were not made in good faith, but prompted by ulterior motives."

"The association further reserves the right to take appropriate action by reason of what they believe to be a libel against each member of the association," said the letter, which was dated February 4.

What prompted this letter was one Griffith admitted he wrote on city stationery to the church pastors of the city. In it he said, "as you may know — or not know — until last April city hall was riddled with corruption and vice."

The Administrative Employees Association is made up principally of city department heads.

Federal Grant Being Sought

Approval has been given by San Bruno councilmen for application for a federal grant of $70,564 to hire half-a-dozen community service officers.

The grant, administered by the California Council on Criminal Justice, was created through the Omnibus Crime Control and Safe Streets Act of 1968.

Under the 36-month project, the city will hire six part-time 17-to-21-year-old youths to act in the capacity of traffic control officers for directing traffic and investigating accidents, according to Police Chief Russell Cunningham.

Costs of Airport Link

No Surprises in 80-Page BART Report

(Continued from Page 1) and the proposed Colma station (at "D" Street) the tracks will follow the SP right-of-way. Parking for some 500 cars, with future expansion of parking facilities west of the station, have been included in initial planning.

At present there are some 50 mobile homes and a scattering of private homes on the site. All would be relocated using federal funds provided for under the Urban Transportation Act.

In order to align the track with the abandoned Line 40 right-of-way down the EL Camino Real medium through Colma, a small corner of the Woodlawn Cemetery would have to be crossed on an aerial structure.

Some $1.9 million has been earmarked for right-of-way acquisition in the segment construction costs.

A $2 million saving might be realized if SP's right-of-way along the Colma-San Bruno branch line were abandoned and the railroad's customers relocated.

Rather than tackle this problem headon, engineers sidestepped the subject by reporting it was still under study.

No schedule for construction of the line was mentioned by the authors of the report which included, PETB-Wilber Smith-Kirker Chapman (engineers); Kitchen & Hunt; AIA-Architects; and Gardner-Piercy, right-of-way consultants on the project.

The strip of property the transit line has selected to follow is formerly the route of the Line 40 trolley to Burlingame. It varies in width from 40 to 100 feet and is owned by San Francisco.

Another proposed station site is adjacent to the new Kaiser Hospital site on Chestnut Avenue in South San Francisco.

This station will have parking space for between 300 and 500 cars. Engineers expect fewer cars at this station because of the distance from both the Junipero Serra and Bayshore Freeways.

Patronage here depends on feeder service, it was pointed out.

The type of line—whether subway, at-grade or aerial—is still in a state of flux in the South San Francisco area because of the present position of the city council.

At previous SFAAP meetings on the extension, councilman Frank Bertucelli and city planner Dan Pass have made it clear they will insist on an expensive subway through their community.

Opposition to a station at Tannan, site of a now-developing shopping center, was withdrawn by developer Hap Smith at a luncheon meeting with San Bruno city officials last week.

The plans for this station include a multi-level parking facility for some 500-600 cars.

Smith had voiced concern over commuters using the shopping center's parking lot.

A maintenance shop and railcar parking area should be built on San Francisco airport lands west of the Bayshore Freeway, it was recommended.

No provisions for an airport station itself was mentioned in the report. The route as now proposed stops in San Bruno.

Nor was there any mention of how much it would cost San Mateo County to "buy into" the over all BART system.

Object of the $557,000 partially federal funded study project was to determine the best, most economical route for rapid transit to the airport.

The biggest stumbling block to the success of the link, if one had to be singled out, is the relationship between SP and the SFAAP. In the report, nine alternatives for dealing with this agency were explained.

Cost estimates did not include inflation, rolling stock, finance charges or the airport station.

Teller Foils Attempted D.C. Holdup

A daring holdup attempt at a Daly City bank was thwarted this morning by a female teller who managed to keep her cool.

About 8:30 a.m. a man pulled up to the drive-in window at the First National Bank of Daly City on Mission Street and placed a plain manila envelope in the deposit box.

The man coolly informed teller Terry Mitchell a specially-built radio controlled bomb was inside the package.

Unless she quietly handed over her cash he would trigger the device and blow up the building.

Instead of complying with the order, Mrs. Mitchell, mother of two small children, refused to carry out the orders, closed the window and walked away.

The flabbergasted suspect sat for a minute in his car before roaring out of the bank area.

Bank president Fred Mommer said he had never heard of anything so brave in his entire experience.

"She simply turned her back on this guy and walked out of the teller's cage," Mommer said.

Mrs. Mitchell has been with the First National Bank of Daly City branch for only six months.

Inside the package were two roadside flares and an ohmmeter.

It resembled a small time-bomb from outside appearances, a police investigator said.

Federal Bureau of Investigation agents working with local police were on the scene soon after the report.

A bomb squad team, led by officer Stephen Steen dismantled the "bomb" after pushing it back outside through the deposit slot.

The more than two dozen bank employees along with a handful of customers were quickly evacuated from the bank shortly after Mrs. Mitchell gave the alarm.

Colma Creek Drain Plea

Congressman Paul N. McCloskey has appealed to North County cities to resolve the problem of apportionment of cost of a potential federal project to improve Colma Creek drainage.

The congressman is scheduled to be in the county on February 11 for a meeting with officials of South San Francisco and the supervisors to decide a future flood control project for Colma Creek.

South San Francisco must decide within the next 60 days on whether to apply for a $17.2 million federal project. The federal government will pay approximately half. The state has not indicated its share.

The alternative is a locally-financed project, estimated to cost more than $6 million. The city would receive no federal aid on this project. Its cost to South San Francisco would be based on a graduated formula established by a flood control district that imposes a higher rate of tax on downstream property owners than those improved areas on high ground contributing to the flood damage.

In a letter to mayors of all cities involved, and the supervisors, McCloskey said, "upstream development is measurably increasing the potential danger to flood plain property owners, and litigation is a distinct possibility."

He said he could take no position "on the law or politics" but he thought "the local communities (should) speedily resolve this question either by agreement or by referral to a court or declaratory relief."

McCloskey said there is an urgent need for resolving the formula for local contribution so South San Francisco can decide whether to apply for the federal project soon.

Varied Courses at Adult School

Drug education, woodshop and contemporary crafts are only three of the varied courses being offered by the Adult School of the San Mateo Union High School District during the semester, which begins Monday.

Adult School classes are held at six different district high schools, and all courses are scheduled at night, with the exception of five daytime clothing classes at Capuchino High School in San Bruno. At night, all levels of typing and woodshop also are taught at Capuchino.

Auto Mechanics for the Layman (both men and women), clothing instruction, and crafts are available at Crestmoor High School in San Bruno. Crafts is designed to develop skills in such contemporary crafts as ceramics, sculpture, jewelry, textiles, and weaving.

Crafts also is taught at Mills High School in Millbrae. Auto mechanics, woodshop, and physical fitness for men are available at Hillsdale High School in San Mateo. San Mateo High offers orchestra for those with some musical experience, auto shop and auto-body-fender for apprentices only, and a basic reading course.

Most of the adult school classes are held at Burlingame High School, including the courses required for a high school diploma. This spring, Burlingame will offer art I and 2, physical fitness for women, Spanish, French, Italian, speed reading, shorthand, office business machines, and bookkeeping. Also available is an eight-week course in drug education that will explore "the full spectrum of the drug scene today," according to the course description. Instructor Karl Gripenburg, a veteran volunteer at the Haight-Ashbury Medical Clinic, will emphasize developing awareness of sociological and psychological factors underlying drug abuse, as well as explaining the pharmacology of drugs.

The course in English as a second language for the foreign born requires 13 classes to meet the demand, and students representing more than 50 nationalities are enrolled, according to Adult School Director Morris Winward. The citizenship class, also at Burlingame, has students representing 19 different countries.

Adult School classes are open to any district resident 18 or older. Registration fee for most classes is $6, and registration will take place at the first class meeting. Detailed class schedules are available at the public libraries or from the Adult School office at Burlingame High.

THE Listening POST by Lyle Arnold & Alex Florea

Welcome to our new column. It will appear weekly in The Times, written to help all of you who have a hearing problem, or a relative or friend with one. Our aim is to answer your questions, help clear up common misconceptions about hearing loss, and keep you informed of the latest technical advancements in hearing aids.

Certainly hearing loss is no laughing matter, but perhaps you saw the cartoon on this subject which appeared in The Times the other day. It showed a couple in a living room, each with a bullhorn like police use. Speaking through his, the husband is saying to the nearby elderly lady, "Really, Mother, you'd make us all a lot happier if you'd let us buy you a hearing aid."

This brings home two truths: (1) The hard-of-hearing often refuse to admit they are; (2) This simply makes everything difficult for others as well as themselves. And it's all so sad today, when great advancements in electronics have made hearing aids so small and efficient that they are far less conspicuous and easier to wear than glasses. A lot of people would be a lot happier if they'd only try one, custom-fitted by an expert consultant.

3 Officers Injured in Rumble

A youth dance Saturday night in San Bruno turned into a free-for-all melee in which three policemen were injured and two youths arrested.

Police booked Andre P. Larios, 19, of 961 Easton Avenue, on charges of assault of a police officer, resisting arrest and disturbing the peace. A 15-year-old boy was arrested in charges of being drunk.

THIS IS the kind of scenic view a person gets from Sawyer Camp Road. The historic road, which runs along the shores of Crystal Springs Lake between Hillsborough and Millbrae, is owned by the San Francisco Water Department but dedicated to public use and, therefore, subject to San Mateo County control. Through the years nature lovers have fought attempts to close the road to the public. Several years ago the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors allowed the road to be closed from 7 p.m. to 7 a.m. Last week the supervisors agreed to restrict its use even further by granting a request by San Francisco that it be closed at 5 p.m. eight months of the year. Visitors to the area contend there is still plenty of light after 5 p.m. this time of year as shown by this Post Photo taken by Ray Zirkel at 5 p.m. last Friday. (Editorial, Page 18)

Sgt. Fred Gillen sustained a slight fracture of the skull when he was hit on the right temple with a brick, police said. Gillen was taken to Peninsula Hospital, and later released. Police said he would be off duty for several days.

Also injured were Officer Terrence Johnson who sustained injuries from blows on the head and Special Officer John Lewis who was kicked in the groin. Both were treated at the hospital and released, and are back on duty.

Police said they received a call of a disturbance at 11 p.m. at the American Legion Hall in the 700 block of San Mateo Avenue.

Police said that as the officers were leaving, Officer Johnson was attacked by Larios. Officer

Lewis tried to give aid to Johnson and was kicked in the groin.

Meanwhile, the some 300 youths at the dance began chanting and yelling at the police. Outside the dance hall anti-police activity mounted and assistance was sought. Officers from the County Sheriff's Department, the California Highway Patrol, the South San Francisco and Millbrae police responded.

Police said they formed a line and broke up the crowd. The youths responded with shouts and threw beer and wine bottles.

In addition to the officers being injured an unidentified girl was treated for cuts after being struck with a flying missile.

According to police four Crestmoor High School youths came to the station several days ago to inform the police there would be a dance. However, it was not school sponsored.

Police said the youths had told them there would be chaperones. Authorities said they could find none the evening of the dance.

South San Francisco councilmen have authorized City Atty. John Noonan to submit a proposal for acquisition of 20,569 square feet of property at a cost to the city of $57,594.

The property is a portion of the Person and Swanson industrial tract off San Mateo Avenue, adjacent to Colma Creek. The city presently uses the area during dredging operations of Colma Creek.

Person and Swanson has been submitting a rental bill to the city for using the property since November of 1970. The bill totals $12,448.98, and includes interest. Councilmen in the past have denied the claim.

Noonan said the proposed acquisition is based on a rate of $2.70 a square foot. He indicated Person and Swanson may be interested. If agreed, the rental charges would be dropped, said Noonan.

According to the city attorney, passage of a bill now pending in the state legislature could mean the city would be reimbursed the cost of the purchase.

Airport Expansion Program Compounds Traffic Woes

By FRANK LAPIERRE

SAN FRANCISCO International Airport is the greatest single economic force in San Mateo County.

With its 30,000 employees, plus another 6,000 workers indirectly attached to the payroll, the nation's sixth largest airport last year handled 14,580,423 passengers.

Third of a Series

The gross annual payroll for these employees is estimated at $300 million.

Each year the volume of passengers increases, as does the cargo tonnage shipped to all points of the globe. This increase demands more workers to handle it, more facilities, plus more construction workers to build these facilities.

This expansion program, dictated by increased use of the airport, is responsible for creating a monumental traffic crush at peak commuter hours.

County Planner Reino Liukkonen invites anyone doubting there is a passenger-worker-auto jam to "look around (the airport) during a holiday."

Actually, the crush is not limited to holidays. It goes on almost around the clock.

"There is no question . . . the efficient functioning of the airport is extremely important to (San Mateo) County," Liukkonen said.

He agrees the county's free-

Veteran councilman Maurice Hamilton has long been a proponent of rapid transit to the airport.

He was "deeply disappointed" when San Mateo county Supervisors voted to get out of the system in 1961.

Hamilton wholeheartedly backs the extension project now underway between Daly City and the airport. His only suggestion is that people not consider this extension "an isolated project."

For some four years Hamilton was on the Executive Board of the Association of Bay Area Governments (ABAG). He is presently Chairman of the Local Agency Formation Commission's Council on Governmental Relations.

"Through these organizations I have had access to information relating to this subject,"

Maurice Hamilton

Hamilton said, "I feel this link (from Daly City) will encourage support for an overall line down the Peninsula."

Directly opposite in his evaluation of the airport — and the transit link — is San Bruno city manager and former San Bruno Chamber of Commerce manager, Christopher (Kit) Menkin.

"The airport does not have as big an influence on San Bruno as people think," Menkin said.

On the one hand Menkin does not think BART will have any noticeable effect on his city, while allowing that the "airport needs rapid transit . . . no doubt about it."

Opposition of the proposed BART link comes from the SFO Airline Pilots Association for another reason.

Captain John X. Steanski, chairman of the Association's Community Relations Department, called anything other than a direct transit link to the airport "sheer folly."

He said original plans for BART should have included a non-stop service to the airport, indicating any stations between the airport and BART's main line will not serve the purpose of moving the mass population that now use the facility.

"The airport needs BART not just to compete," Menkin said, "but also to preserve its own survival."

Overall, rapid transit will be nothing more than a "white elephant" for San Mateo County, the city manager feels.

Menkin lumped BART into what he calls the "anti-progress era" and predicted people will not use the system. Further, San Brunans will refuse to pay for it.

There is not much need for a single purpose transit system if the problems of access and parking can be solved at the airport, according to San Bruno city engineer Leo Van Dusen.

Van Dusen, a member of the Technical Committee of the SFAAP, thinks "rapid transit for San Mateo County is completely worthless" and that the link is a "waste of taxpayers' money."

Another vociferous opponent of rapid transit is Pacifica Mayor Nick Gust.

"Our Board has previously expressed its stand on this matter. We feel regardless of what type system goes down the Peninsula we'll end up with a bus system to the airport," Gust explained.

"Why should we undertake paying for bonds, or whatever financing is called for, when all we're going to get is a bus system — something we already have," Gust asks.

Hamilton counters: "We (citizens) must be realistic. We must be prepared to participate in financing a fair share of this system because it is of definite benefit to all citizens."

James K. Carr

Property taxes will not sup-share arrived at concerning the system, proponents concede.

San Mateo councilman John Murray agrees that people are concerned with the method of paying for rapid transit. But he quickly adds that transit is needed, and soon.

As executive manager of the Peninsula Manufacturer's Association, which boasts some 150 major companies located in the that lack of a transit system will have a bad effect on the continued economic growth of the county.

The Greater Downtown Commission appointed by the San Mateo City Council is on record strongly favoring mass transit for the entire Peninsula.

The obstacle that appears to be almost insurmountable is public financing of the ambitious project.

James Liukkonen

ways will soon be jammed to capacity.

A rapid transit system should not be limited to the extension now being studied, but should extend to San Jose, Liukkonen suggests.

"San Francisco will continue to grow, however not with the spectacular growth it has enjoyed in the past," the planner ventured.

Instead, the population growth will be experienced in San Mateo and Santa Clara counties, Liukkonen said.

A transit link to Oakland Airport, which last year enjoyed a 6 per cent increase in air passenger volume to 11.7 percent of the Bay Area total, is now being studied. The fact that the airport is located in Alameda County, a BART member, favors this link being completed before San Francisco Airport's transit link, observers speculate.

Even with BART links to Oakland Airport and the talked about San Jose Airport route down the East Bay, a transit link is a necessity to S.F. Airport, proponents say.

County officials, including Supervisor James V. Fitzgerald, fear that completion of a link to Oakland airport and the absence of a similar extension to S.F. airport will have a lasting detrimental effect on the economy here.

Why should a passenger battle traffic for an hour to get to San Francisco airport when he can travel in comfort, to Oakland airport in less than 20 minutes from downtown San Francisco on BART?

This is a question that crops up on an increasing scale during conversations on the subject.

These same supporters of a fixed rail transit system back their stand by noting that an accident on the Bayshore Freeway can tie up traffic for hours, thus causing travelers to miss scheduled planes.

It would be rare for such a tieup on BART, they say.

Airport Director James Carr has tried the downtown Cleveland-to-Airport system and proclaimed it "excellent."

"I've seen the Cleveland system work. People use it because it's a good system," Carr said. "Traveler baggage handling on the trains is no big problem."

San Bruno is called "The Airport City" because of its proximity to San Francisco International Airport, yet inside its city government there are differences of opinion on the airport and its value to the community.

Plan for the day includes a hearty breakfast, a mid-day report to the office and a victory hour at 5:30 p.m., when results will be tabulated, winners announced and prizes awarded.

Award Given Camp Fire Girl Leader

Long-time Pacifica resident Mrs. Julian Reinherz has received from the Golden Gate Council of Camp Fire girls the Ernest Thompson Seton award.

The award annually is given to a person in Camp Fire who makes a distinct contribution to the program.

Mrs. Reinherz has been involved in Camp Fire activities for about 50 years, since she started the Blue Bird program as a young girl.

When Camp Fire was redivided into districts two years ago and Pacifica Daly City and Half Moon Bay became District VI she was program chairman.

She also is a leader in the Pacifica branch of the American Association of University women and president of the board of directors of the Pacifica Art Guild.

New members of the board of directors from District VI installed were Mrs. David Schimmer and the Rev. William Turner from Daly City and Sidney Lorvan from Pacifica.

Those from District VI retiring from the board were Mrs.

MRS. KATHRYN JOVICK and Mrs. U. R. (Jack) Kendree presented book on Ballet in memoriam of Mrs. Winnifred Morgan, a late director of the Friends of the Daly City Library.

James Brien and Mrs. L. J. Brownmiller, both of Pacifica, recipient of the Wakan service award for 1970 given to a group leader who has given distinctive service and cooperation to the council over and above the outstanding leadership and creative program guidance given her group, went to Mrs. Nason. The other award was presented to Mrs. Lowell Brubaker of El Granada.

JHS Sophs Preparing for Dance

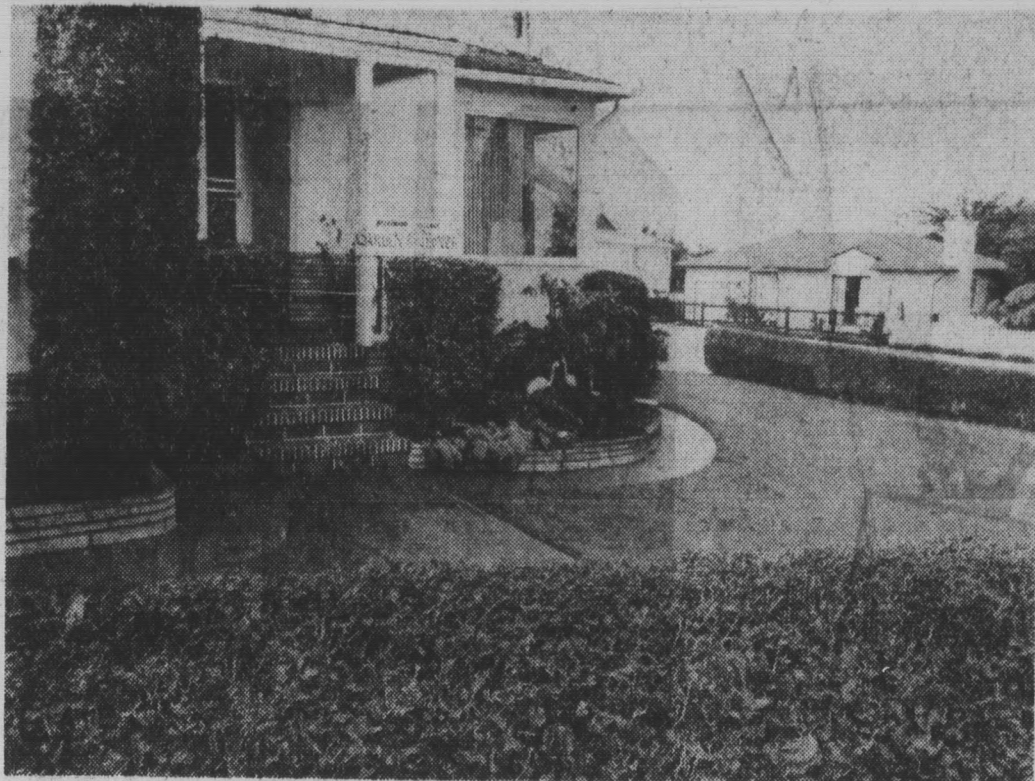

By SUE McALLISTER
Jefferson High School

The sophomores are busy making final preparations for Cupid's Affair to be held February 11 from 8 to 11 p.m. Since the Indians' basketball team has a game, the door will be left open until 9 p.m. Music will be provided by the Soul Sensations. The price is $1.25 with student body cards and $1 without. Everyone is welcome.

At 7 p.m. today the illustrious Jefferson Faculty will compete with Colma Faculty in a basketball game. The price is 25 cents for tickets bought beforehand, and 50 cents at the door.

The Indian faculty this year has a record of 0-1 (lost against KYA Oneders) but we are confident they can overcome the Colma Faculty.

The C.S.F. Club held a successful car wash at the Phillips 66 Station in Skyline Plaza. The C.S.F.'ers, normally known for their brains, used a great deal of brawn to raise BROADMOOR'S Garden of the Month award went to Mrs. Emma Mendez of 1811 Sweetwood Drive, Unincorporated Colma.

$75 for their third annual camping trip. The club, along with advisor Al Sinor will go to Hidden Valley, near Los Altos on May 6, 7 and 8.

The spring semester student body cards are now on sale in the cafeteria at lunchtime for $1.

Usually a full year student body card costs $3, but this year to stir up more interest the student body decided to have fall and spring cards. The fall card is void now.

Local Scouts Honored

The start of a new year is a good time to stop and pay tribute to those who have been especially successful, fortunate, and/or have earned unusual honors during the months just past.

With such an aim in mind the San Francisco Bay Area Council of the Boy Scouts of America honored the youths of the bay area who earned the rank of Eagle Scout in 1970 at the 1971 Eagle Scout Banquet held last week in the Gold Ballroom of the Fairmont Hotel in San Francisco.

Leading citizens from all over the bay area assembled to sponsor the boys at the banquet and to join such luminaries as the Most Reverend Joseph T. McGucken, Archbishop of San Francisco, Donald R. Arnold, president, San Francisco Bay Area Council, B. S. A. and John R. Ralston, head football coach, Stanford University, in commending each of the new eagles for a job well done.

More than 200 young men were on the list of honorees and among them were Daly City residents Edward Anderson, troop 248, whose dinner host was James Gosline, Vice Chairman of the Board, Standard Oil Company of California; Scott Alan Christensen, troop 351, whose dinner partner was J. H. Hume, president of Basic Vegetable Products, Inc. and Robert Gerughty, troop 244, whose host was J. Max Moore, president of the Moore Manufacturing Company.

Eligible to attend, but unable to appear, was John J. Jindra of Daly City Explorer Post 387.

Sharing the speaker's podium with Ralston was Eagle Scout Darius Frierson, Explorer Post 329, who spoke on Project Soar, Save Our American Resources.

Mrs. Edna Laurel Calhan, president of the Fifty Plus Club of Pacifica, has announced that a special event is being planned for Sunday, February 21, and all members of the club and their guests are invited to assemble in her San Francisco home that day for an old fashioned, unfilled, Songfest.

Clinton Steele, director of the Pacifica Choraliers, is going to be in charge of the program and Dean Singer has volunteered his services as accompanist. Everyone who enjoys singing is invited to join the fun on February 21, between 1:30 and 3 p.m. at 30 Crestlake Drive in San Francisco.

Mrs. Calhan is looking forward to an enthusiastic turnout with many faces present that have been missing in recent weeks. Albert McMeekin, Marall Smith and Ressa Wolf have all been removed from the sick list and are expected to be among those taking an active part in club functions.

Several members of the club have issued an appeal for donations to be used as prizes at the games parties they give for patients at the Linda Mar convalescent home twice each month.

According to Mrs. Lucille Rentmeester, Mrs. Elizabeth Funderburg, Mrs. Dorothy Arnold, Mrs. Victoria Plate, Mrs. Helen Sprowl, and Mrs. Dolly McGilley, the faithful crew of workers who go to the home on the first and third Tuesdays of each month, the men and women are especially grateful for perfumes, jewelry, corsages, picture postcards, pens, writing tablets, handkerchiefs, pocket combs, small potted plants and even dimes for telephone calls. If you have anything to donate, phone Mrs. Rentmeester or Mrs. Funderburg.

Ralph Brant of Pacifica will present an evening with Lincoln on Friday, February 19, in the social hall of Lakeside Presbyterian church, Nineteenth Avenue at Eucalyptus drive in San Francisco.

Lincoln has become extremely fashionable in recent years and matters pertaining to the man, his presidency, or the mystic of the Lincoln era attract considerable attention and a standing-room-only crowd is expected to be on hand to enjoy, "Ralph Brant plays Lincoln."

The evening will begin with a potluck dinner at 6:30 o'clock. No reservations are necessary but persons planning to attend are asked to contribute to the meal. Guests whose last names begin with the letters A through G are asked to take a main dish large enough to serve 10 persons; persons whose names begin with the letters H through N, salad and bread for 10 persons; and O through Z, dessert for 10.

Clark Madrosen of Daly City has written his family, Mr. and Mrs. John Madrosen, that he has re-enlisted in the Air Force and is preparing to leave the frozen north for a new assignment in the Hawaiian Islands.

Other north peninsula residents on the move include Bonnie McByrd, who has been working in the Serramonte Shopping Center and is now enroute to Paris, France, where she will study music at the Paris campus of Stanford University for six months.

CAROL SUE JEPPESON, CHERYL GLEN

Westmoor Girls Selected to Go Abroad for 8 Weeks

Westmoor students Cheryl Glen and Sue Jeppson will travel overseas to participate in the Experiment in International Living summer program this summer.

The girls are being sponsored by the community and the International Friendship Club.

The girls had to write an essay which expressed their reasons for wanting to participate in the overseas program. The competition was narrowed down to four girls, who were interviewed by two Westmoor teachers, including I.F.C. adviser Dexter Leland, two community members and last year's I.F.C. students Rosie Guillen and Gary Nidua.

Cheryl has selected Italy as the country in which she will spend her eight weeks — two weeks touring and six weeks living with an Italian family. One member of the family, usually a "sister" or "brother" will speak English.

Sue has selected the Netherlands as the country where she will spend her eight weeks. The trek will begin early in the summer of 1971 with a brief orientation preceding the trip.

Science Talk by Dr. Posin to DC Rotary

At a recent Wednesday luncheon of the Rotary Club of Daly City heard a talk by Dr. Dan Q. Posin on "Chemistry and Life in Outer Space."

At this luncheon, sons and daughters of Rotarians attended.

Dr. Posin used an unusual photograph of earth's galaxy at the bottom of which a pinpoint of light is its sun, surrounded by its solar system of which the earth is a part.

He noted that all the other stars pictured are suns, some known to have their own planets. These stars compose earth's milky way. One trillion other galaxies are in visual range through large telescopes. The nearest star to the earth would take seven thousand years to reach today, Dr. Posin said.

He spoke of the radio waves received from stars and because of the constant type of wave lengths emitted, many kinds of gases can be accurately determined, some favoring possible organic processes.

Dr. Posin is chairman of the Department of Interdisciplinary Sciences at San Francisco State College. A doctoral graduate of the University of California in physics, he has served on six other campuses, written 24 books, is a member of numerous scientific societies, and has done many TV programs, including that for National Educational TV known as "Dr. Posin's Giant," and recently 30 shows for KQED, San Francisco entitled, "Science in the Age of Space."

NELL NORTON Sugar 'n Spice

GOOD MORNING, GOOD COOKS.

Interesting and confusing facts: Next Friday, Feb. 12, is Abraham Lincoln's birthday. Interesting. Next Monday, Feb. 15th, we will celebrate George Washington's birthday. Confusing. Because as you and I know (having paid close attention in the history class) George Washington's birthday falls on Feb. 22nd. Why the change? The Monday Holiday Bill. This way, anyone lucky enough to have a holiday for Lincoln's birthday can have a four-day weekend.

Not to be outdone in combining the celebrations, herein are the recipes for a cake to honor each man.

ABRAHAM LINCOLN CAKE

3 teaspoons double-acting baking powder
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 1/2 cups sugar

3 eggs unbeaten
1 cup of milk
1/2 cup unsulfured molasses
1 1/2 teaspoons cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon cloves

Sift together the three cups flour, three teaspoons baking powder and three-fourths teaspoon salt. Cream the one and one-half cups sugar with the three-fourths cup margarine. Beat in the three eggs, one at a time. Add the sifted dry ingredients alternately with the cup milk. Beat batter for 30 seconds.

Pour half the batter into a bowl, into which stir the half cup molasses, one and one-half teaspoons cinnamon and half teaspoon cloves.

Grease and lightly flour a 12x8x2-inch pan. Drop light and dark batters alternately into pan to make a marbled effect. Bake for 45 minutes in 350-degree oven, or until cake tests done.

BROWN SUGAR FROSTING

1/2 cup margarine
1 cup brown sugar, packed
Dash of salt
1/4 cup milk
1 1/4 to 2 cups powdered sugar

Melt the half cup butter in saucepan, add the one cup brown sugar and dash salt, boil over low heat, stirring constantly. Add the fourth cup milk, stir until mixture boils. Remove from heat and cool.

Sift the powdered sugar and add slowly to the cooled mixture, beating as you add, until the frosting is of the right consistency to spread.

PICTURES AND DESCRIPTIONS of life at Mount Vernon indicate that President and Mrs. Washington lived in an elegant manner. And recipes coming from the Southern plantation tradition indicate a lavish hand with ingredients, i.e., "Beat 2 pounds butter with 2 pounds fine white sugar and gradually beat in 2 dozen large egg yolks — etc."

Fortunately for our budgets, this cake has modified such extravagant quantities. And fortunately for our taste it has retained the fine qualities. This cake has the fine texture of a pound cake with candied fruits and whole candied cherries adding color and flavor. It makes a large, rich cake, which kept quite nicely, found, wrapped in plastic wrap and stored in the refrigerator.

MARTHA'S GREAT CAKE

1 cup butter
1 cup sugar
5 eggs
2 1/2 cups sifted flour
1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
1/4 cup brandy
2 8-oz. jars candied fruits and peels
2 8-oz. jars whole candied cherries

Cream the cup butter; add the cup sugar gradually and beat until light and fluffy. Add the five eggs, one at a time, beating well after each addition.

Sift the two and one-half cups flour with the one-fourth teaspoon nutmeg. Stir half the flour into the creamed mixture, beating at a low speed on mixer. Next add the fourth cup brandy and the remaining flour, blend gently but well. Fold in the pound each of fruits and whole cherries by hand.

Turn into ungreased 9-inch tube pan with removable bottom. (Not having a tube pan with removable bottom, I lined the bottom of my regular tube pan with waxed paper and it came out fine.)

Bake in a 300-degree oven for one hour and twenty minutes, or until top is golden brown and springs back when gently touched with finger.

Cool in pan or rack.

ANNUAL DINNER

The Catholic Social Service Agency Board of Directors will hold its annual dinner Thursday at the Shadows restaurant in San Mateo, Mass., celebrated at Old St. Matthew's Church at 6 p.m., will be followed by cocktails and dinner at 7:30 p.m.

ton's Birthday. The meeting will be held in the Martin Luther King Jr. Educational Center, 101 Lincoln Avenue, at 8 p.m.

Terra Nova Topics

By Rockie Montenegro

Two guest speakers visited Terra Nova last Tuesday during the activity period. Representing the Ecology Action in Pacifica was Mrs. Mary McClure. She spoke of the various ecology activities that her group is involved in, which included the Saturday re-cycling service, beach clean-up, tree planting, and a campaign to save San Pedro Creek from pollution.

The re-cycling pick-up point that is set-up by EAP is located on the corner of San Pedro Road and Highway 1. Pick up hours are from 10 a.m. to 12 noon. Items being collected include newspaper, cardboard, green, brown, and clear glass, and aluminum and tin cans.

Mrs. McClure spoke to Science Club members and interested students. After her speech, many students signed up to help with the ecology programs she mentioned.

GEORGE MULLER, a student from Skyline College, addressed another group of TN students on the San Mateo Junior College tax issue. He described the events that led up to the present situation, and also the effects it will have on the junior colleges if the March 2 tax election is not passed.

Since high school juniors and seniors will be directly affected by this election, he encouraged TN students to help get the issue passed. Distributing leaflets, volunteer typing and other services were suggested to students as ways of helping out with the election committee. The main concern, however, is informing the voters of the present situation.

THE FILM CLUB starts another semester of film viewing. Following is the new schedule of films to be shown:

FEBRUARY 8: Shane, a serious, atmospheric Western about a pioneer family protected by a mysterious stranger. Alan Ladd, Van Heflin, Brandon deWilde, Jack Palance.

MARCH 1: The Lost Weekend. Ray Milland and Jane Wyman, winner of the Academy Award for Best Picture of 1945, Best Actor, Best Director, and Best Screenplay. This is the frightening story of a man's deterioration and his almost hopeless struggle to overcome his affliction.

MARCH 15: Grand Hotel. A 1932 Greta Garbo flick about an upper-crust hotel with John Barrymore as a baron who manages to get involved in the lives of several guests. Among these is a Russian dancer, Grusinskaya, played by Garbo. Best Picture of 1932. Also in the cast are Lionel Barrymore, Wallace Berry, Joan Crawford.

MARCH 20: Frankenstein. Boris Karloff. The original Frankenstein horror film based on the story by Mary Shelley. A terror classic that transformed Karloff into a star overnight. On the same bill: Krakatoa, academy award winning documentary about the rebirth of an island.

APRIL 12: Mr. Campbell's Surprise (???) — a Bo's classic with a script by George S. Kaufman and Morris Ryskind. Cast includes Walter King and Siegfried Rumann.

APRIL 26: Mr. Hulot's Holiday, produced, directed by and starring Jacques Tati. A comedy done mostly in pantomime about an accident prone dogooder on a seaside holiday. In the footsteps of Chaplin and Keaton.

MAY 24: The Great Ziegfeld, William Powell, Myrna Loy, Frank Morgan, Fanny Brice, Ray Bolger, Louise Rainer, Academy Awards for Best Actress. The story of Broadway King Florenz Ziegfeld.

Fuchsia Society Meeting Slated in San Bruno

The San Bruno branch of the American Fuchsia Society will meet at 8 p.m. February 12 at the Decima Allen School, 875 West Angus Avenue, San Bruno.

Marge Gentry, former owner of the Pacifica Fuchsia Nursery and an officer of the San Francisco Fuchsia Society, will speak about the pruning and early spring care of the plants. Tod Anderson has been installed as the new president of the group. Also elected to executive posts were Forrest Eby, first vice president; Wendell Hunter, second vice president; Mrs. Forrest Eby, recording secretary; Mrs. San Comfort, treasurer; Mrs. William Schoening, secretary; and George Harris and Allen Hamilton, directors.

FUND-DRIVE PLANNING — The North San Mateo County League of Women Voters met with its men's advisory board in South San Francisco to discuss the League's fund-raising campaign. Among the business leaders present were Karney Barberian (left) of San Bruno and Ralph Barkey of Pacifica and T. Kenneth Ulyatt of South San Francisco. Sandra Radomski Wed

Making their first home in Houston after honeymooning in Las Vegas and San Antonio are Mr. and Mrs. Adam Lazo Jr., who recently were married at St. Peter's Catholic Church in Pacifica.

The bride is the former Sandra Kaye Radomski, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Radomski of Pacifica, who hosted a reception at their home for close friends and relatives immediately following the service.

For her wedding, Sandra wore a white crepe knee-length gown with silver trim at the bodice. Her sole attendant was her sister, Mrs. Steven Hunt, who wore a coral crepe gown trimmed in gold.

Best man for the son of Mr. and Mrs. Adam Lazo Sr. of Houston was Steven Hunt, brother-in-law of the bride.

The new Mrs. Lazo was graduated from Terra Nova High School. Terry and Ro-

Players Disclose Production Cast

Who are the "Cave Dwellers"?

The Pacifica Spindrift Players presented the cast of William Saroyan's two-act play to be presented in March for three week-ends.

In the role of the Duke is Gary Nelson. His "girl friend" will be Pamela Colton, whose husband Geoffry has the father's part.

Bill Thaxton is King and his Queen is Kathleen McIntyre.

Since Don German groaned the best at tryouts, he will be the BEAR. He and Allen Gaumgartner, who plays Jamies, are drama students at Terra Nova High. A dual role is being done by Ed Roy. Alexandra Brenke completes the cast in the role of the Mother.

The players are now in rehearsal. Help is needed for technical roles.

New homes by the sea.

Tom Powell Singularly Unqualified

"Dear Sir," the letter began. "Our group likes to hear different speakers at our monthly meetings. We read your column now and then... and it sounds like you know what you're doing. Since you're a man who writes about food, we figure you must be funny like the guy on TV. Would you like to come talk to us sometime?"

"Dear Ma'am," I replied. "I fear you have found me out. I am not an expert on food, I have no English accent and have been known to be exceedingly boring in groups larger than one. In high school, I took Spanish instead of French so I couldn't tell Fond de Veau from Bouillon deBoeuf (whatever they are.)"

"I am a Gemini — thus nothing seems to hold my attention very long. Therefore I chose journalism as a profession because something new happens every day. And I took up cooking because radio and carpentry lost their zing after a while. In cooking, I get interested in the subject three times a day, except when I'm sick."

"I used to think I was the world's greatest cook until I tried to saute a pound of beef kidneys and went through three cans of room spray trying to air out the house."

"I am a Gemini — thus nothing seems to hold my attention very long. Therefore I chose journalism as a profession because something new happens every day. And I took up cooking because radio and carpentry lost their zing after a while. In cooking, I get interested in the subject three times a day, except when I'm sick."

"I got my first blender last Christmas, have never used a wire whip, and am clumsy with a wok."

"I've never even had the patience to watch Julia Child all the way through."

"So I must respectfully decline your invitation to speak. However, if you ever have a cooking contest I'd be happy to help judge it. Although three or four samples of homemade pastry would shoot my weight back up over two hundred, you only live once. Very truly yours..."

Our feature recipe this week is strictly borrowed. I have a fondness for the Cornish game hen and like to use it in presenting individual dishes to company (and as a cop-out at dinner time because it's so easy to spit barbecue.)

STUFFED CORNISH HENS AND POTATO HALVES

- 2 Cornish hens (about 1 pound each)
- 2 corn muffins
- 1 tablespoon butter
- 1 tablespoon chopped onion
- 1 tablespoon chopped celery
- 1 tablespoon finely chopped green pepper
- 1 tablespoon dark seedless raisins
- 1/2 teaspoon dried parsley flakes
- 1/2 teaspoon dried savory leaves
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- Dash of pepper
- 1 egg yolk
- 2 tablespoons milk
- 2 medium-sized baking potatoes
- 1/2 cup melted butter or margarine

Heat oven to 350 degrees. Rinse hens well and pat dry with paper towel; set aside. In a bowl crumble muffins into coarse crumbs. Melt the tablespoon butter in a small saucepan over moderate heat. Add onion, celery and green pepper; cook until onion is lightly browned. Remove from heat and stir in raisins, parsley, savory, 1/2 teaspoon salt and dash of pepper. Pour mixture over corn muffin crumbs. Slightly beat egg yolk with milk and pour over corn muffin mixture. Combine well. Stuff half of this mixture into each hen. Fold wing tips under each back. Place on a rack in a shallow roasting pan. Cut well-scrubbed potatoes in half lengthwise. Score cut sides with a sharp knife and place, peel side down, on roasting pan with hens. Sprinkle potatoes lightly with salt and pepper. Brush potatoes and hens lightly with melted butter. Roast about 1 to 1 1/2 hours brushing occasionally with melted butter. Serves 2.

Robbers Hit Bruno Cafe

The Taco Bell at 1780 El Camino Real in San Bruno was robbed of an undetermined amount of cash Thursday.

Police said they are seeking two young men in connection with the midnight robbery.

According to police, two men 18-to-20 years old entered the rear door of the establishment. Both wore black handkerchief masks and carried what appeared to be automatic pistols.

Police said one suspect came up behind employee Russell Giacalone, 19, of Daly City, and instructed him to "put the money in a bag."

Letters to the Editor: 'Taxi-War' Comments

Editor, The Post:

In reading your article "Taxi War Seems Over," I was sorry to read that no accommodations for local taxis from the airport to San Bruno, etc. have been considered.

Two friends visiting us from Australia arrived at 6:30 a.m. in San Francisco Airport on December 30. They hired a taxi to bring them to our home. The taxi driver was heading for San Francisco when our friends explained again they wanted to go to San Bruno and repeated the address. The taxi driver was very upset. It ended up with his leaving them at the Donut Shop on San Bruno Avenue where they asked for help in securing a local taxi.

Surely Adults can make some mature decision in this matter and put out a welcome mat to arriving visitors. Our visitors are now on their way back to Australia, but my husband and I were embarrassed at their first taxi ride in our country. Fortunately we had many pleasant ones while they were here.

I am writing this letter in the hope that your paper might be able to do something about the taxi situation.

MRS. DANIEL HILL, San Bruno

Editor, The Post:

A moderately priced home on a tree-lined street in a fairly sunny area was what we wanted and had found in Mills Park, San Bruno. That was exactly three years ago. Today we live in a highly polluted area. It is polluted by airport fumes and, most distracting, airport noise. The latter has just been aided by the City of San Bruno tree pruners. Our big lovely tree in front of our house has been chopped into ugliness.

It is necessary to prune out trees to allow for new growth, to remove all low hanging branches which are dangerous to pedestrians and autos, and to control the over-all growth of the species for easy maintenance. The latter is usually done by "topping" a tree. However, San Bruno does not seem to be aware of these methods. Our tree was undercut only, which will force growth upwards. The inside was not weeded out, but all branches even with the roof line were cut and in the process the bark was stripped.

Now we are left with a beautiful view of utility wires and a United Air Lines sign, most aesthetically pleasing as long as you are a pop art fancier.

Our sound baffle which absorbed some of the airport noise is gone as is our privacy. In a strong wind a tall tree with a shallow root system just might topple over. The house across the street looks to be in peril already. Its tree is listing about 25 degrees towards its roof. As my three-year-old so aptly put it when she heard the pruners' raucous, machine-gun sounding equipment, "Why are they killing our tree, Mommy?"

M. CAMPBELL, San Bruno.

Editor, The Post:

I believe the banning of no-return bottles in South San Francisco is ridiculous. This by no means will stop litter in any way. I do not know or favor any businessmen in South San Francisco or any other city for that matter. This law will definitely hurt their business. But this is not the point.

I myself when buying bottles of any type, will deal only in no-returns. And the majority of adults do the same. After all, why litter your house with return bottles. I also believe that the majority of adults after consuming the contents of these no-returns will put them where they belong, in the garbage can.

The three 17-year-old high school students in South Francisco who worked for the banning of these no-returns, thought and still think they are doing the proper thing. They could not be any further from the facts. They should sit down and think. Just ask themselves the question, Who is littering our streets, beaches and parks. You could bet your bottom dollar that its not the majority of the adults who purchase these no-returns.

This ordinance is very bad legislation and should be dealt with accordingly. It is infringing on a person's rights. I do not believe that any adult should be denied the right to purchase no-return bottles. These students should form a large committee in their school and try to help the unfortunate children in South San Francisco's grammar and high schools who have not learned how "not to litter."

They should work for legislation like putting milk back into returnable bottles, candy and gum into returnable plastic containers, and beer and soda pop into returnable cans. For this is where the litter is.

I truly hope the city council in Pacifica has a little more sense than that in South San Francisco and overwhelmingly by a 5-to-0 decision votes this propaganda down.

WILLIAM J. MANNIX, Pacifica.

Editor, The Post:

I refer to your article "Mayor Raps Police Force in Brisbane."

Sensationalism often sells newspapers. Sensationalism just for the sake of sensationalism alone neither sells newspapers, nor does it do justice to its editorial staff. To lift a word, a phrase, a sentence out of context and to overlook entirely the substance of one's remarks is an injustice to the individual.

Elected representatives of your cities and county met to discuss problems of mutual interest. The continual escalation of criminal activity is one of these problems. I suggested that a concerted effort in crime prevention should be made at the juvenile level for here, indeed, an ounce of prevention would be worth the proverbial pound of cure. I cited the efforts of East Palo Alto where, with the help of concerned citizens and a Federal grant, such an innovative plan was in operation. I believe this to be a good plan and it ultimately might be invaluable if adopted county-wide.

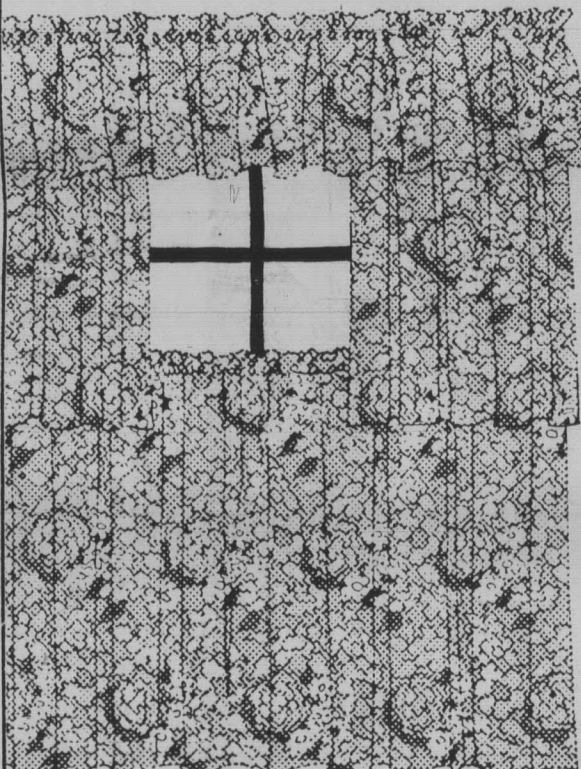

I further suggested that the county would find it profitable to sponsor a "Methadone" program now for heroin users; profitable in rehabilitation of the individuals concerned in savings at all levels of law enforcement and in the possibility of putting pushers out of business for lack of victims. The advantages of such a program seem obvious.

Finally, I remarked that at least in my community, I felt

Mayor's Reply

that police training was inadequate, and that this phase of police duty deserved consideration. Others in the group suggested that perhaps a county-wide program of recruit training sponsored by the police chiefs and patterned along the lines of those programs already in force in San Francisco, Oakland and Los Angeles could do much to overcome deficiencies in police know-how.

I suggest to the editor that these were constructive criticisms and were important enough to print. I believe that your reading public would rather know that this informal committee was actually performing a community service and not spending its time in mud-slinging. I also believe that your readers are not particularly interested in my personal feelings regarding the psychologic, constitutional personalities of lawmen, or about my jousting with the mayor of Daly City regarding its police force.

In the privacy of meeting with top officials of the cities and county. We conferred on our own time and without pay. We found mutual areas of concern and we attempted to resolve problems in a rationally reasonable way. We debated with sincerity and earnestness. We came as friends and we left as friends.

I will agree that my approach was not conventional. It was not intended to be. It did provoke fruitful thought. And as one TV ad puts it, that's the whole idea, isn't it?

MAYOR S. J. GUARDINO,
Brisbane.

Editor, The Post:

A briefing was held at Mills High School on the evening of 15 December 1970, at which was presented a proposal for a good-will trip to Millbrae's Sister City, La Serena, Chile. This trip, two weeks in length, scheduled for April 1971, would involve about 125 students of Mills High School (band, drill team, chorus, orchestra), four or more teachers, a nurse and a doctor. Parents of the students directly involved were invited to attend this orientation meeting; about one-third of them were in attendance.

I requested that before financing, or attempting to finance, this project (estimated cost $125,000) a public meeting be held. This project affects educationally and financially all Mills High School students (classes for those left behind must be covered by substitutes for those teachers on tour), the parents of all Mills High School students, the communities served by Mills High School (principally Millbrae and Burlingame), and the entire San Mateo Union High School District.

I ask that consideration be given — publicly — to the political implications of a good-will junket to Chile, now in the process of being converted to Marxism-Communism. The government of the United States has not accepted the diplomatic representative of Chile nominated by the Marxist President Allende. In effect, this means that we have not given full recognition to the present government of that country. In addition, Chile has violated her obligations to the Organization of American States.

I believe that we, as a nation and as a community, should wait until we see how the internal affairs of Chile work out before giving approval, propaganda service, and financial aid by sending a good-will-tourist-cultural expedition there while communism is being imposed upon a democratic nation by a minority party, and while the promises of the new regime blot out the economic and social realities.

If we must commit ourselves to this type of junket, let us consider Bucharest, Prague, Belgrade — where communism exists, but democratization has been, or is being attempted.

In September 1970 this community rejected the tax appeal of our local two-year colleges. Far more beneficial than expenditures for a foreign good-will tour would be approval on 2 March 1971 of the tax levy required to keep these colleges operating and open to all applicants — our last chance to make the needed funds available. The costs of the Chilean expedition, if diverted to the junior colleges would benefit (would pay the total district costs for) several hundred students who would otherwise be denied post-secondary education. This effect should be weighed against the benefits received by 125 students of our local high school, and the propaganda benefits accruing to communism.

Widow's Plight

A STORY WRITTEN by Yours Truly concerning a widow with five children who is looking for another shelter for her brood had produced a bewildering series of phone calls from several residents of her neighborhood. We use the term "bewildering" because this story has prompted — actually inspired — a small group of folks to take offense to our even THINKING of trying to find assistance for this woman. It seems this group of neighborly Samaritans has decided neither this woman, nor her children are worthy of living in THEIR community, let alone being aided in finding another home. The house is to be torn down and the present landlord is doing everything in her power to relocate the widow, as are social workers and some neighbors. We refuse to print here the mouthings of these callers who did not identify themselves. Suffice it to say our stomach has once again been tied in knots — nothing new in the 20-odd years we've been clamoring around in this business.

GOT A FUNNY in the mail the other day. From a person who simply signed it "Disgusted — like you said." The author ventures that everyone is afraid to run for the trustee posts on the Jeff Elementary School Board "because of the endless crying for poor abused Board members that clutters up nearly every issue of a rival newspaper."

Apathy on the part of the public seems to be a just reward, the writer said he believes, while noting the taxpayer (that's me and you, folks) gets lost in the shuffle. There is also too little talk about children and too much gibberish about the plight of teachers, administrators and board members, our writer writes.

AFTERTHOUGHT: By golly we couldn't have said it better.

LATEST TO THROW her hat into the upcoming County Board of Education race is Mrs. Reva Krips.

HELP, HELP — Angie Bonfiglio asked this column to announce that the Grace Presbyterian Church at 515 Winchester Avenue, Daly City is looking for donations to buy toys, plastic kitchenware and other kitchen utensils for use at the kiddie playground behind the church. Items or cash donations can be left at the church, of Information & Referral Center, 6634 Mission street. Sorry, Angie, we're not allowed to put this type of item in our column. Better luck next time.

GOING TO THE DOGS — We can't think of what's worse: Skittering around dog messes dropped on sidewalks with the apparent blessing of dog owners, or getting letters from those persons less agile than I am. At any rate, we have mentioned this rather sad situation to the Powers-That-Be (nothing); to so-called "dog lovers" (nothing) and even asked why the County Humane Society can't step up its action on dogs allowed to run loose in the city (nothing but doubletalk). Frankly, we like dogs. Always having owned a dog, I find it easier to take a small shovel and plastic bag with me on walks than to infringe on the rights of my neighbors. The next time you spot a dog going about his business on the walkway or lawn, while the owner stands by, why not curb the owner?

OUR APOLOGIES to Attorney William Schumacher for an article we wrote last week. It seems Attorney Schumacher (quietly) withdrew from consideration for the post of City Attorney for the City of Millbrae in a letter to Mayor Bill Glang on January 27, 1971. After reviewing his personal affairs and duties as a trustee at the JESD, Schumacher decided to withdraw his name.

MORE ON SCHUMACHER — Marian Holland, mother of two children and active in the St. Andrew's Parish in Daly City, is now associated with Schumacher. She was formerly with Attorney Tom Bocci's firm.

ON THE POLITICAL FRONT — That mess in San Bruno turns me off. Everybody that has anything to do with the recall — directly or otherwise — is sending in "News Releases."

Frankly, some of them read like fourth grade English composition tests. The misspellings are bad enough, but the contents are worse.

Latest flood of rubbish coming into this office is from the PR offices of Orville Wycoff, candidate to replace Neil Christal. Every piece of paper, regardless of its origin, uses the same words scattered throughout. Such gems as "challenge," "charges," and "abuses."

In a thickly-worded release regarding "Wycoff Reaffirms Validity of Recall," the contents boggled our mind no end. After going through the usual routine of condemnation utterings, along with statements on where he stands, Wycoff cautioned the folks

Area Leaders in East Bay BART Ride

Some 30 members of Bay Area officialdom took their first ride on the Bay Area Rapid Transit District's sleek commuter trains Wednesday.

Comments on the experience ranged from "Great" to hopes that the sound levels would be lowered so people could chat, instead of shouting at each other.

BART's experts, however, were on hand to point out the train was only a prototype and was far from the finished product that would one day in 1971 start moving masses of people around the 75-mile system.

The sightseers included Daly City councilman and San Francisco Airport Access Project director Frank Pacelli, Daly City mayor Bernard J. Lycett, SFAAP councilman Warren Steinkamp (an alternate to Pacelli on the SFAAP), Colma mayor Ray Otoboni, San Bruno mayor Neil Christal and councilman Ted Long.

The elected officials also bought along members of their staffs to get a firsthand look at the system.

In addition to the train ride the group toured an aerial structure on the East Bay line, an underground facility in Oakland, the massive computer board which operates the entire system, and a model mile-long linear park in Albany.

The park was built under an aerial structure and featured benches, shrubbery, trees, water fountains, play areas for children and walking paths. It received favorable comments from the Peninsula officials. Such parks are a feature of the system, Larry Dahms, BART's assistant general manager, said. The district builds the park on BART right-of-way and turns

Facts on Colleges

Today, a plea to the voters of San Mateo County — Before you go to the polls to vote on the bond issue for the San Mateo Junior College District, arm yourselves with a few facts and a knowledge of the predictions of professional statisticians.

In 1965, the number of students attending California's public junior colleges was 10,300. In 1970, the number may reach 42,600. At the same time, the four-year state colleges and the University of California and all of its branches are reaching the very maximum enrollment that each can sustain.

Projections formed as long ago as 1960, indicate that by 1975, the University of California will be forced to limit the number of freshmen and sophomores to about 35 percent of the undergraduate enrollment. Added to this knowledge is the chilling fact that already some state colleges are diverting students to overburdened junior colleges that cannot refuse to admit them.

THE CHOICE being that California is to either support the building of new schools or call for restructuring the whole system of higher education.

Any talk of restructuring leads to the suggestion that students be asked to pay tuition. But even this will not provide enough classrooms to educate the students who will pay the tuition. Moreover, it will prevent many students from attending because of finances.

A chart from the U.S. Office of Education shows that the average charges for undergraduates attending tuition-paying universities exceeds by as much as $1,500 the charges that students in public schools are required to pay.

ANOTHER CHART shows that California values tuition free education enough to provide the largest current fund expenditures of the fifty states.

The vote you cast this March 2, 1971 may be among the most far reaching of your life. You can secure information at your public library.

at home not to be misled by items appearing in the press — at least not those statements attributed to his opponents. What Mr. Wycoff apparently is trying to say is this: Don't believe anything you hear and only half of what you read — unless, of course, Mr. Wycoff says or writes it!

Criminal Justice

BY JAMES W. HALLEY
Post-Times Columnist

Criminal justice is steadily gaining public attention. Only a few years ago people wanted effective law enforcement but viewed the courts as beyond partisan and public furor.

Today, the courts, once sacrosanct, have become a political battleground. Starting with reaction to some of the decisions of the Warren Court, the public has become more and more vocal about our system of justice.

This kind of historical drift can result in bad or good, depending upon fortune and the nature of public response. An informed and aware public could demand rational judicial reform and force the courts into the twentieth century. Or a hysterical public could politicize our judicial system and ruin its function as the guardian and purveyor of justice.

With judicial reform proceeding at a snail's pace it seems the danger of injury is increasing. A frustrated public is turning to attitudes and proposals that would irreparably impair the essence of justice. Trials are no longer speedy and enforcement is no longer effective. In groping for solutions, public pressures may clumsily destroy fairness, leaving us with a court system but no real justice.

Last week the San Francisco Police Officers' Association took a large step in the wrong direction. It wants to police judges, or if you will, judge the performance of judges. Specifically it intends to act as a complaint depository and to forward these to the State Commissions on Judicial Qualifications in selected cases.

On its face this could be construed as an innocent enough effort. After all, say some, the police would merely be gathering information and sending it on to a lawfully organized and highly prestigious commission. Knowledgeable and sophisticated men such as San Francisco's Mayor and Chief of Police have supported this proposal. But there are underlying risks that should be considered.

Policemen are citizens. They vote, and, as individuals, are in contact with a wide range of friends and acquaintances. Many are very able politicians. The police in most major cities (and certainly in San Francisco) are well organized. In San Francisco the officers' association includes a great majority of officers, and there are even sub-groups established as organized factions. The police meet with candidates and have banded together from time to time for a wide variety of political and pressure purposes.

The fact that the Police Officers' Association proposes forwarding complaints to the Commission on Judicial Qualifications is not the real problem. The menace is found in the systematized gathering of information by an activist group that is well equipped to catalyze and even lead campaigns against judges.

Those who question the political significance of this plan should consider a few practical questions. What officers will make the decision to submit complaints to the state? Will it not be necessary for the association's leadership to inform members of action taken? And what about the press — will it not publicize action just as it aired the announcement of the plan in the first place?

These inquiries are only the beginning, but they serve as a warning. The politically oriented should easily see that the proposed system is inseparable from the direct involvement of the police in the politics of judgeships.

The danger can be even better understood with a brief consideration of the vulnerability of judges. Many of the best are thoughtful and removed men who are not really equipped for the political fray. Judges of our state courts must stand for election every four years, and judges of middle age, particularly those with families, depend upon continued return to office, for these men have given up private income and private ties to become directly involved in public service. It is entirely suitable that judicial officials be required to meet the voters periodically, but, in the main, it is important that judges be removed from the ravages of daily politics.

The ultimate risk, of course, is that of police influence in the decision making process. Just as policemen are human, judges are also. Who knows what course such interference could take? With such an innovation every case and every decision would be suspect.

Hopefully, the police of San Francisco will reconsider this program, and if they do the public should give attention to their dilemma. It certainly seems time for Bar Associations and duly constituted public bodies to take a hand. It may even be that politics is in order, but not the politics of policemen.

Recycling Stations

Several recycling pickup stations have been opened in San Mateo County in recent months to accept a variety of materials.

Glass, aluminum and metal are the major items used for recycling now. Newspapers recently have been discouraged because recycling plants for them have been swamped since recycling possibilities became well-known to the public last year.

Most of the general pickup stations are operated by citizens' groups.

Lucky Breweries, Inc. of San Francisco recently became the first beverage packager to offer to buy back all its used containers, both bottles and cans. The Lucky pickup station in San Mateo County is at Turturici, Inc., 1055 Old County Road, San Carlos. Lucky says it will pay 25 cents per case of 24 empty Lucky bottles and 12 cents per case of 24 empty Lucky cans.

Several of the citizens pickup stations have been equipped with debris bins loaned by the San Mateo County or Coastside Scavengers.

Unless otherwise noted below, recyclable items should be brought to pickup stations only during listed hours of operation. All of the collection stations also have a few basic rules:

All cans and bottles should be clean and have labels removed. Cans should be flattened. Broken bottles will not be accepted. Metal rings should be removed from bottles. Newspapers should be tied in bundles, with no magazines or glossy paper publications included.

'A Daylight Robbery' of Sawyer Road

It takes monumental gall and almost relentless persistence to keep trying to encroach on a public right for a quarter of a century. The San Francisco Water Department seems to have these qualities for last week it succeeded in persuading the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors to further erode the rights of the public to scenic and historic Sawyer Camp Road.

This road, for the information of the 102,400 new residents in the county since 1961 when public use of the road was last curtailed, is a scenic route along the eastern shores of the Crystal Springs lakes — approximately the area between Hillsborough and Millbrae. Only a few minutes away from the central cities of the counties, it winds through a beautiful landscape and waterscape that has been compared to Ireland's Lakes of Killarney. Quiet and unspoiled, its scenic grandeur is rivaled only by its treasure trove of botanical and wild life.

Built as a logging road over a hundred years ago, it is in the public domain and has been maintained by San Mateo County. It traverses land acquired by the San Francisco Water Department when it took over the holdings of the Spring Valley Water Company in 1928.

In 1946, long irked by a public road through its holdings, the San Francisco Water Department prevailed upon a San Mateo County Engineer, M.A. Grant to seek abandonment of the road. This roused veteran Supervisor Thomas Hickey who opposed the move and rallied support in what became a headline battle to preserve the road.

Hickey, backed by The Times and many civic organizations, prevailed and the road was kept open, although its maintenance was increasingly neglected.

Then, in 1959, the Water Department launched a new fight to close the road urging that its use "contaminated" the reservoirs and offering to swap some of its land in Menlo Park to be able to close that part of Sawyer Camp road which is behind Millbrae. This fight lasted until 1961 when it was compromised by the Supervisors agreeing to a closing of the road at night, from 7 p.m. until 7 a.m. daily. An ordinance to this effect was passed.

Other sporadic attempts to close the road, again trying to use a county official as catspaw, were made in 1968. Then, last week the same man, Supervisor Robert St. Clair, succeeded in getting his colleagues to consent to further decrease the number of hours the road is open to the public. They authorized the Water Department to close its gates at 5 p.m., instead of 7 p.m., during months of October through May.

Police Consolidation—III

Training probably is the most frequently consolidated service being undertaken at present.

In San Mateo County all recruits go to the same police academy, which is directed by the Law Enforcement Officers Association. Most major cities make their training programs available to smaller surrounding agencies, i.e., San Francisco, Oakland, Los Angeles, Chicago, Detroit and many others.

The difficulty with training rests with the individuality of policies and procedures of agencies in that all agencies do not operate in the same fashion nor do they have the same problems or demands for service.

At present, 98 percent of California agencies adhere to peace officer standards and training guidelines which allows cities to be reimbursed from 50 percent to 100 percent for officers' salaries while they are being trained at academies of attending various special courses.

The major problem in this area is the inability of smaller agencies to release men from regular assignments to receive the training, therefore the only training received is on the job.

Solutions to this problem could be a manpower reserve of state or regional officers available to local jurisdictions for temporary replacement, however a manpower pool would not provide personnel who were familiar with local regulations, procedures or problems.

Westmoor's Strategy Subdues South S.F.

By JERRY LITTELL
Post Correspondent

Even the best-laid plans of experienced basketball coaches can go astray and it's a lucky thing for the Westmoor High School Rams that that's what happened on Friday in Daly City.

After suffering a 91-90 overtime loss to South San Francisco in first-round North Peninsula League action, Ram coach Tony Giammona vowed he would not attempt to run with the Warriors on their second meeting. Slowdown tactics and ball-control, two Ram trademarks of years gone by, were inserted into the Friday game plan.

For one half Westmoor tried the old fashioned way. At half-time South City led by 12, 37-25.

Like a jockey giving his horse his head in the stretch, Giammona turned loose his Rams in the second period and they beat the Warriors at their own game, pressing and running, 81-76, to probably eliminate South San Francisco from title contention. Westmoor is alone in first, one full game ahead of Jefferson.

"Here I try to slow things down and we wind up scoring only one less point than we did in the first regulation game we played against South San Francisco," the Ram mentor noted. "Guess it's better sometimes to just let the players go at it at their own tempo."

With forwards Mike Young and Roland Candee doing the scoring and guard Gene Mackey setting everybody up with quick passes, South City controlled the game almost from the outset. In the last 90 seconds of the half the Warriors outscored the Rams, 8-1, to take that halftime bulge.

But size began to tell the story. With mid-year addition Jim Woods beefing up the Ram front line, Westmoor was awesome on the boards throughout the third period. In fact, in the first 11 minutes of the half they went from the 12-point deficit to an 11 point lead as South City just did not get any rebounds.

Then the Ram press rattled the usually poised Warriors in the final period as guard Brad Quansstrom, his right leg heavily taped after a bruise in Wednesday's Serramonte game, alternated scorer and assister keeping Westmoor at a teasingly close five-to-seven point distance.

The Rams, who have really never peaked yet to the explosive power with which they are endowed, got excellent offensive board work from Jeff Orlich, soph Gavin Long and Woods.

Last Wednesday's action: The Rams defeated cross-town rival Serramonte, 73-59, while South City was upending Half Moon Bay, 85-63. In other NPL action Jefferson edged Oceana, 61-60, to remain in a tie for second while Terra Nova got revenge on El Camino, 64-59.

Westmoor controlled the pace right from the outset despite a brief flurry by the Regents towards the end of the half. Serramonte's leading scorer was Don Theuner, who just transferred from Westmoor to Serramonte, with 18 points. Brad Quansstrom totaled 24 for the Rams in their seventh win.

South San Francisco used 10 players in the first quarter, still came up with a 24-7 advantage and coasted to its sixth win of the campaign. Sophomore Pete Peterson of HMB and Mike Young, senior forward for SSF, each got 16 points for game honors.

A free throw by center Kenny Smith with seven seconds to go gave Jeff a 61-58 bulge over rugged Oceana and led to the Indians' sixth win. Oceana center

Terry Johnston got a bucket off a jump ball with one second left to close the gap to within one but the clock ran out. Smith again led the Indians scoring with 26 while Johnston popped for 21 for the losers.

Terra Nova's Bob Petty and Jeff Wellemeyer combined for 35 points as the Tigers, upset by Camino in the first round, got back at the Colt five The press, which was Camino's main weapon in the earlier win, didn't phase the Tigers this time and the TN offense got inside the Colt defense on numerous occasions for easy layins.

Capuchino Defeated by San Mateo

Someone asked Capuchino basketball coach Jimmy Johnson a silly question on Friday before his team's game with San Mateo.

The question: "Say, are you going to press tonight?" Jimmy's answer: "Do birds fly?"

Cap pressed all right, and the effort destroyed what would otherwise have been a pleasant evening for San Mateo as the Mustangs stole and ran to an 86-88 victory on the Cap court.

San Mateo started well. Owen Woods and Gene Erickson were hot. They and center Hollister Savidge were doing all right against the taller "Tangs on the boards. The Bearcats zipped to a quick 9-4 lead.

Then the Capuchino full-court press happened. It was a strong 2-2-1. San Mateo guard Rich Yamagata, the smallest man on the floor, ran up and down the baseline trying to find an open man.

Sometimes he got the in-bounds pass clear, but often there was a Steve Newberry or a Keith Hernandez or a Rob Silver to intercept for the "Tangs and lay it in.

That happened five times in a row late in the first quarter and Cap jumped out to a 22-15 lead, which they held with no trouble by doing what comes naturally — steal, run and shoot, shoot, shoot.

Hernandez shot for 27, Newberry shot for 21 and Silver shot for 13. That bothered "Cat coach Gus Hassapakis.

"We didn't play so badly," Hassapakis said. "They changed their press in the third quarter and we managed to break it eventually. But there was just too much Hernandez, too much Newberry."

Mostly there was too much manpower on that press for San Mateo to beat. San Mateo didn't lose poise; something the team couldn't say earlier in the season. But the Bearcats don't have the team speed to break a press.

Still, San Mateo scored its highest point total of the season. Four starters — Woods, Savidge, Erickson and Matt Love — hit in double figures. Woods led with 21.

"It's too bad," Hassapakis said, "because they're good kids, and they're playing much better than they have before. They deserve to win more than they have. We should have been maybe 3-3 at the end of the first half of the season."

The Bearcats, one game out of the cellar at 2-6, were idle Tuesday.

Capuchino's Mustangs are now the only team left with a realistic chance of catching the undefeated Knights and even Jimmy Johnson's cagers have a full two-game bulge to make up even for a tie. Johnson is the first to admit his squad's task is a rugged one but still insists all the obstacles can be overcome.

"I don't believe Hillsdale is unbeatable by a long shot," Johnson noted Wednesday after his Mustangs had edged Burlingame, 51-49, to stay in the race. "Taking nothing away from the Knights at all, we still played a poor game in losing to them last Friday night. We have to wait a while to play them again but I would just as soon play them two times in a row and get it over with now. I know we can beat them and I think there are a few other clubs that could knock them off for the other game we need to make up."

Capuchino had to win yesterday but for a while it appeared the Mustangs weren't about to take any charge at all. Burlingame, likewise in a must-win situation, not virtually drops out of any title hopes after losing a (Please See Page 20, Column 1)

LE PACINI Sportscripts

William W. Russell, executive secretary of the California Interscholastic Federation (C.I.F.), recently released a report regarding drop-out rates and drug abuse involving prep athletes in New York and Cleveland, and the report, it seems to us, should be highly significant for high school coaches who are continually in danger of having their programs cut back.

Results of the Cleveland study, which is given in much less detail in this release than the New York Study, show that in 1968-69 the percent of athletic drop-outs was 1.2 per cent as compared to a drop-out rate of 15.8 per cent for male students in general.

A similar study conducted in New York involved 15 high schools (from disadvantaged, middle class and affluent areas), 496 teams, and 10,840 athletes over a period of three years (1966-69). The N.Y. drop-out rate was 1.3 per cent as opposed to drop-out rates for regular students which ranged from 3.5 to over 25 per cent in the 15 schools.

Although drug abuse figures were based on the opinions of coaches (John C. Glading, acting assistant administrative director of the New York City Public School Athletic League, the man who released the studies, believes that the "opinions" of coaches is more accurate than that of any other teachers because of "the personal guidance and observation of their players (and) the length of time spent with them...") rather than on any real hard facts, the results were, we believe, significant.

They show that .0204 per cent of the athletes are suspected users) that .0114 per cent occasional users, and that only .0012 per cent are known addicts. Additionally, no heroin addicts or acid heads were reported.

The greatest percentage of drug abuse involved marijuana, and the greatest number of cases of suspected and occasional users were basketball players, followed by track men. Only three football players were reported as drug abusers, with none in the occasional or known addict categories. Of the mere 13 cases of known "drug" addicts among the 10,840 athletes reported on, almost all were on only marijuana.

The report concludes that the interscholastic program is a "positive deterrent" to the drop-out problem and that drug abuse by athletes "is infinitesimal when compared with the reports of drug abuse among general high school populations." The results of the survey, adds the report, "are irrefutable."

FOR STATISTICS-BUFFS ONLY:

During the 1967-68 season, Nate Thurmond and Clyde Lee together totalled 2262 rebounds, which is the highest total ever of two men on the same team in the same season. That was one of the years when Thurmond was hurt (he played only 51 games), and Lee, who had been playing a lot of forward, switched to center.

A FEW WEEKS AGO a Warrior game was held up for about 10 minutes when one of the officials was injured. When he couldn't continue, the other official had to work the game alone for about a half, until the injured official was able to return. It was a farce. Two NBA officials ordinarily can't handle a game properly. Our point is that with all of the money the NBA throws around, wouldn't it be relatively inexpensive, and display a little class, to have a stand-by official at every NBA game for just such emergencies?

WE'RE GETTING A LITTLE annoyed with the critics who won't let Franklin Mieuli forget that he gave up his top draft pick (Pete Maravich presumably) for the rights to negotiate with a player (Zelmo Beaty) who for all practical purposes was already tied up tightly with the ABA. As we said, we are tired of the criticism, perhaps nearly as tired of it as is Mieuli.

For one thing, we can't tolerate second guessing. Nor do we enjoy people who try to lap up spilled milk. Also, it's an old story, as stale now as the Ricky Barry story. Finally, we wonder why nobody ever thinks of picking on the real culprit in the affair — Nate Thurmond.

It was Thurmond, after all, who precipitated the action. If he

Vike Coach Has Little Celebration

By CHRIS STAVE
Post Correspondent

Mills basketball coach Frank Firpo didn't waste much time celebrating his team's 55-46 victory over Crestmoor last night.

As soon as the final buzzer sounded he herded his charges away from the standing-room-only home crowd and into a far corner of the gym, where he sat them down to talk about Burlington.

Mills beat Burlington in the first half of the Mid-Peninsula League season, but Burlington is not an easy team to beat twice. Firpo knows it. He was careful to mix instructions with his congratulations.

Several times during last night's game the Vikings appeared to have matters well in hand, only to have Crestmoor chip away by making good use of muscle on the offensive boards.

Mills took a quick 10-0 lead to start, then slipped. The Vikings led by 12 at the half, then slipped. The Vikings had a good third quarter, then slipped again, until Crestmoor was only four points behind early in the fourth stanza.

Crestmoor actually got one more field goal than the Vikings, but couldn't hit the charities, which disturbed freshman coach Pete Pontacq.

"Just when we're beginning to come around, something like this happens," he said. "We couldn't hit the free throws; we just couldn't put it through. But I still think we're improving."

When Crestmoor basketball coach Pete Pontacq predicts a good second half of the Mid-Peninsula League season for his Falcons, he isn't really kidding, in spite of the team's reputation.

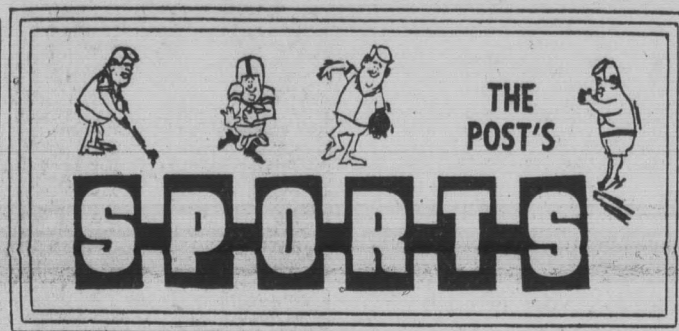

His team was a cellar-dweller during the first half; they were young and green. They were liable to get rattled early in a game, to throw away passes, miss layups, fall apart on defense.

The Falcons still committed some of those sins in losing to league-leading Hillsdale 76-55 yesterday afternoon at Crestmoor, but they displayed signs of vast improvement.

The change in attitude was obvious from the beginning. Even though the Knights were unbeaten, the Falcons were not going to be intimidated.

Center Mark Spaher and sophomore Mark Rosekind jammed the lane well and fought elbow-to-elbow with Knight aces John Morton and Vance Schram.

But the Falcons were still a little unsteady on offense. There are still some turnovers, bad passes on the fast break, and missed layups.

As a matter of fact Crestmoor blew eight layups in the first half. If Bruce Patterson hadn't hit a not streak in the second quarter, the Knights would have built up a prohibitive lead on Schram's foul shooting.

But Hillsdale's margin was only 10 at the half — 39-29.

Hillsdale really won the game at the start of the third quarter. The Falcons, in a temporary relapse, turned the ball over five times in the first two minutes and the Knights were able to build up a 14-point spread, 55-39, at the end of three.

But midway in the third quarter Schram fouled out. With 20 points, he had been the game's top scorer. Shortly afterward, Knight guard Sky Webb fouled out.

This could have been the Falcons' chance; Hillsdale lost a bit of its disciplined edge with two starters gone. But Knight coach Homer Zugelder immediately instituted a slowdown, and the Falcons couldn't get any closer than nine points.

Still, it was one of the Falcons' better games. "I think we're really coming around," Pontacq said. "They missed some layups and fouled too much, but they're still young."

"Spaher is the only senior on the team. Rosekind is only a soph, and he did a very good job defensively. Patterson really helped us out in the second quarter. Spaher and Rosekind both did a good job on the boards. George Ama had a good game too."

"I think we're really starting to come together."

Wildcats Edge Serra Booters

Despite goals by Ken St. George and Joe Perez, the Serra High School soccer team dropped a 3-2 decision to St. Ignace in a West Catholic Athletic League match on the St Ignace turf Friday.

JHS Gains a Second

There wasn't much doubt who won and lost on Friday in two of the North Peninsula League basketball games as winning squads posted margins of 25 and 33 points.

Terra Nova bombed error-prone Serramonte, 71-38; Jefferson finished strong to smash El Camino, 61-36; and Oceana outlasted Half Moon Bay, 64-60.

Serramonte committed 28 turnovers, fell back early in the second half by 20 points and never recovered against the Terra Nova pressing defense. Guard Bob Petty led the Tiger defense while Jeff Wellemeyer scored 25 points in the free-wheeling affair.

Camino, which defeated Jefferson the first time around, wasn't able to muster the needed offense this time as the Indians ran off to the 25-point win. Guard Herbie Eastman led the Indians with 24 as Jeff pulled steadily away in the second half.

Oceana center Terry Johnston enjoyed his finest scoring night of his varsity career and the Sharks needed every one of his 32 points in the four-point victory over HMB. The Cougar defense cut off several inside Oceana moves while center Jeff Yerian came through with 22 of his own points around the key.

Capuchino Bows to SM Bearcats game they could just have easily have won.

The first half was poorly played. In fact, after four minutes of the first period the score was 2-2 with both teams missing easy shots inside and at the free throw line. Air-balls were the style of that quarter. Only Doc Scheppeler's clutch shooting enabled the Panthers to work up a 7-2 lead and eventually an 11-8 quarter bulge.

Capuchino appeared in real trouble when forward Steve Kricher warmed up in the second eight minutes. Kricher, who was to pop for 17 by halftime, poured through four consecutive outside bombs as Burlingame upped its margin to 22-12. For Burlingame which has lost four games by a total of five points all year, it was all downhill from there on.

Capuchino's quick-handed guard Keith Hernandez led a 21-point Mustang explosion in the third period that proved the killing blow for Burlingame. Hernandez keyed three quick steals resulting in three layins and two free throws and Cap surged until they tied the game at 36-36 with 2:37 left. The Mustangs took their first-ever lead with 18 seconds left in the period when Dennis Haag took a pass from Hernandez off a steal for still another driving bucket.

Both Ray Rotolo and Don Dowling, the two opposing centers, were in foul trouble but when Rotolo went to the bench with four, Dowling was unstoppable inside late in the third and early in the fourth periods. Burlingame was plagued by the ineffectiveness of anyone besides Kricher of Scheppeler even looking for shots as they generated little offense inside the 12-foot area.

The Panthers did manage one last-gasp effort at the Mustangs when, with 1:40 remaining, Rotolo's two free throws tied it at 49-49. The Panthers were not to get off another attempt.

WHS Unit Gets by Serramonte

Starting the second round of league play Westmoor's Sophomore Rams coasted past the Serramonte Regents 59-46, February 3, at Serramonte.

Rams played an aggressive game as the controlled boards and kept the game moving at a fast pace.

Ron Johnson led scoring with 17 points for Westmoor. Leo Biederman chipped in with 15 points and grabbed numerous rebounds for the Rams. Gannon led the Regents with 16 points and Sanchez helped their cause with 10 points.

Score was tied 14-14 at the end of the first quarter but the Rams rushed ahead to end the first half, 31-21. A consistent attack in the second half kept the Rams comfortably in front the remainder of the game.

Skyline Cagers Lose to Marin

Skyline coach Walt Rilliet's definition of good basketball doesn't necessarily include victory.

The Trojan cagers, who travel to Santa Rosa Wednesday night for a Camino Norte contest, lost another heartbreaker Saturday night when they bowed to College of Marin, 69-68, on a last second shot.

KYA Oneders Edge WHS Faculty '5'

KYA Oneders beat Westmoor's faculty, 78-74, last Wednesday night in a battle of humor.

Rams were lead by "twinkle toes" Tony Giammona who netted 26 points in a great performance which was highlighted by a number of 25 foot set shots, and numerous behind-the-back passes.

"Rambling wreck" from Westmoor stayed right with the fabulous Oneders to take the advantage at half-time 42-40. Mark "Motor Mouse" Mallingier, and his ball handling wizardry, tanked 11 first-half points.

Coach Pete Matis's unveiled his secret plan which was to murder Dan Novitsky, Oceana's 6-8, 19 point per game, giant. It appeared to be effective throughout the game, as he was only able to get 11 points and many bumps and bruises.

To the delight of packed house in the Ram gym the faculty and the Oneders played scoreless ball for two minutes of the second half. Missed layups, steals, blocked shots and swift ball dribbling were the center of attraction.

Oneders started to pull away in the third quarter while the faculty started to lag behind in a battle of fatigue which the Oneders won 78-74.

Jeff McLaren of the Oneders put 17 big points on the scoreboard to win the game of the biggest body and the longest arms.

"Georgious" George McNutt powered his way to the hoop for 12 "lucky" faculty points, but the story was decided by the Oneders Don Delbon who capped 15 points "100" assists and "billions" of rebounds.

More Frustration

By PETER BARSOCCINI
Post Correspondent

Observing the Serra High School-Sacred Heart basketball contest held last Saturday night in the ancient confines of Kezar Pavilion was the same as watching an hour-glass.

From the opening tipoff to final buzzer, the outcome seemed blatantly obvious and the suspicion was borne out by a 76-58 Irish victory.

The Padres came into the meeting after an emotionally loaded loss to St. Francis on the previous night and encountered the precise cohesiveness of Sacred Heart's squad whose consistency is almost abnormal. The combination of these two factors were too much for the Padres to handle.

The loss dropped Serra's West Catholic Athletic League record to 1-9. By virtue of the win, Sacred Heart remains in the thick of the tight race for a WCAL playoff position.

The first period was dominated by Irish center Glen Hubbard, who went for 10 points in the stanza and dominated the backboards. Serra was operating fairly successfully at this point but the Padres trailed by five at the end of the period.

Hubbard attained his fourth personal foul in the second stanza but Steve Pasero picked up the scoring slack for Sacred Heart with 11 points, seven of which came from the foul line.

The Irish blew the contest into oblivion in the third period as each of their players presented an ample offensive threat which kept the Padres defense at bay. Serra was pressing but the Irish, poised as they are, coolly hit the open man, who seemed always to be there, to take a 24-point margin into the final quarter.

Then all that was left to do was sit and watch the sand slowly sift irrevocably through the hour glass.

The Serra Padres might well be the most frustrated congregation of young basketball players on the Peninsula.

And understandably so in view of their 61-56 loss to the St. Francis Lancers of Mt. View which transpired in the Serra gymnasium Friday.

The Padres, playing like a pack of hungry wolves, attacked the Lancers with a degree of ferocity rarely seen on the high school level. But St. Francis hopelessly outmatched Serra in personnel and, although the visitors floundered in a mediocre effort, they were a bit much for the Padres to handle.

With the Friday win, the Lancers ran their West Catholic Athletic League record to a flawless 9-0 while Serra dropped deeper into the league's cellar with a 1-8 mark. St. Francis attained the round-robin title for the WCAL with the win as well.

The opening period was rather ragged with the Padres applying a tight man-to-man defense which greatly annoyed the Lancers. But, as has been Serra's undoing all season, the Padres couldn't generate a consistent offensive attack even though they were attaining deep penetration on quite a few occasions.

The second quarter was a good deal more productive for Serra. The hosts forced the Lancers into many turnovers, probably more than St. Francis has committed for the entire season.

Over Thirty Bunch Wins

Bob Fiscaro and Bob Fellows went to the net for 12 and 14 points respectively as the Over Thirty rolled over the Sorefoot 40-26 in Pacifica's Adult Hunch League. Bob Richardson popped for 12 points in a losing cause for the Sorefoot.

The Over the Hill Gang picked up a forfeit from the Playboys, and next week will meet the O.D.'s for the Adult Hunch League Championship.

St. Francis led by one point at the half.

The tempo of the contest eased a bit in the third period and Serra began to slide into the occurrence which would eventually deny them the victory — foul trouble.

The Lancers received 15 free throws in the third stanza and converted 10 of them.

The final stanza was the most exciting by far. Both teams were running fairly well and loose balls were being dived upon with torrid intensity.

But the Serrans were overly aggressive at times and once again put St. Francis on the line with suicidal regularity.

Pacifica Beauty Pageant Seeks Financial Support

Throughout the 15 year history of the Miss Pacifica Pageant, the mainstay of financial support for the largest single event in Pacifica of an annual nature, has been those businesses and individuals known as Patrons and Sponsors.

This year is no exception, and the 1971 Miss Pacifica Pageant is calling for local businesses and individuals to become the financial benefactors.

Under the chairmanship of Dick Bottom, the Patron Committee (consisting of Dan Modena, Jim Strom, Joe Mendez, Lowell McGrew, and Aubrey Lumley) is contacting all of the 1970 Pageant Patrons for renewal of their pledges.

A change in the structure of the patron program has limited the number to 100, on a first come first served basis.

Patron pledges are $15 (up from $10 last year) and this year will also include an invitation for two to the Miss Pacifica Ball (First Annual) to be held as a kick-off to Pageant Week on April 17.

The Bernie Kahn Combo (part of the Jack Fisher, Miss California Orchestra) will provide the music, and the Pacifica Federated Women's Club will provide the decorations as joint sponsors of the ball with the Pageant Committee.

In addition to the ball tickets, each patron will receive two tickets to the Miss Pacifica Pageant, in a special Patrons Seating Section on the runway. For April 24th, admission to the post pageant coronation party to be held at the Fairmont Hall, and recognition on a special page in the 1971 Miss Pacifica-Miss America Souvenir Program Book.

A candidates' night, co-sponsored by the Portola Highlands Homeowners Association and the Pacific Heights Association, will be held February 16, at 7:30 p.m. at Portola School, Amador Avenue and Lassen Drive, in San Bruno.

Moderator for the event will be Albert Teglia of Daly City, chairman of the Jefferson Union High School District's Board of Trustees.

The associations selected a chairman from outside San Bruno to maintain an impartial attitude towards all candidates running in the controversial Recall election.

Each candidate will be given five minutes to state his qualifications and the platform on which he is running.

A question and answer period will follow from the floor. Anyone wishing to question a candidate shall rise and wait for recognition from the chairman before asking a question.

Candidates will be allowed a maximum of two minutes to answer.

A program will be distributed to all persons attending so that they will be familiar with the guidelines for the evening.

Also on the agenda for the evening will be a 15-minute talk by Jerry Harrison of Skyline College on the San Mateo Junior College District's proposed tax measure plus literature will be on hand for the voter who wishes to become more informed.

Frank Torres Reopens Friday, February 12

Frank and Fannie Torres are back from vacation, and are preparing to reopen their popular Frank Torres Hotel, Restaurant, Cocktail spa for business. The Torres family didn't tour Europe this year, nor did they spend "slot machine time" in Las Vegas. A restful session was experienced right on their home grounds. Friday, February 12 is the opening date. See ya... Mr. Yee, new owner of Vic & Roger's in Burlingame, wishes to thank the many patrons who were so patient when his restaurant was closed because of a fire in an adjacent building. This is the same gent who worked himself up from a dishwasher to owner-manager of the restaurant. While doing so, he spent three months in the kitchen with Roger Dumont, watching his culinary artistry and developing his own recipes. Open for dinner only... The fabulous Escovedo Brothers will appear for one week only at Frank Martinelli's Beach House. You can hear their unique Latin dance sounds through Tuesday. Frank has initiated a Sunday Brunch which will be served from 10:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. At 12:30 p.m. Sunday, Strings and Things will take the stage to provide dance music until 6:30 p.m.

Lucian, the "Last of the Redhot Papas" and one of the most colorful entertainers in local show business ranks, is always good for chuckles and entertainment at Finocchio's. Lucian has a following that extends thousands of miles in every direction. What amazes many who are familiar with his deep baritone style of singing, a la Miss Sophie Tucker, is the fact he began his show business career as a boy soprano with a religious choir in New York... We've been spending a lot of time describing the pizzas of Enrico Romano, owner of Romano's Italian restaurant in Rockaway Beach, Pacifica, almost to the point, we've neglected those superb Italian dinners of his. Enrico, a man dedicated to his profession, spends many hours daily preparing the sauces and other ingredients which go into these superb family-style servings... One of the most delightful surprises in store for dinner patrons at Lew Lehr's Steak House, in San Francisco's Marina district, is discovering that their favorite steak dinner is still priced the same as it was months ago. In the face of rising costs, Lehr is holding the line on prices, and complete, extra-choice New York, Filet Mignon and Rib Eye Steaks are still priced from $5.

Lucian

The Ranch Inn, located in the Serramonte Shopping Center, will offer their many guests a special Sunday morning Champagne Brunch, which will be served from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. The new management of the Ranch Inn says their luncheon and dinner menus will also delight the most discriminating diners. New luncheon hours are 11:30 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Saturday. Dinner, 5 p.m. to 10:30 p.m., Monday through Saturday; Sunday, 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. As an added attraction, the dinner menu is available at all times... "An elegant restaurant for elegant people" is the motto at Scotty Campbell's, the "award-winning" restaurant in Redwood City. By elegant we mean anyone looking for a meal of superior quality served in an atmosphere rich with friendliness. Becoming one of the most popular dishes here is the Gourmet Platter for Two: sliced sirloin, barbecued ribs, chicken and scampi, served Lazy Susan-style... San Francisco has its Fisherman's Wharf, but San Mateo has Vince's Italian and Sea Food restaurant, which offers an array of menu favorites. A Sunday Special here is Roast Chicken and Polenta... Ansara's in Redwood City has an open challenge to any and all restaurants that their Shish Kabob Flambe or Top Sirloin Steak dinners can't be beat for quality or price. It's the full course treatment, too.

Park Avenue Bonus Packages Popular

Winter fun is at its best these days, what with skiers going in all directions — and snow falling the same way. The Park Avenue Tours' offices have been "snowed under" with reservations for their various travel packages — the "Drive Up," Overnights, and eight-hour Turnarounds — each offering generous bonus refunds. Now is the time to take advantage of the South Lake Tahoe Winter fun. Enjoy "Entertainment the Nevada Way," with Park Avenue Tours' new Reno Winter Fun Drive-Up... Foster's Farm-Fried Chicken House (across from Hillsdale) presents a selection of breakfast and dinner specialties that flatters the palate. Breakfast offerings include a variety of pancakes, plus egg and meat dishes, and several specials. Dinners come complete with soup or salad and include such entrees as Farm-Fried Chicken, Pot Roast of Beef and Roast Young Tom Turkey...

Two of World Airways' top executives Stephen I. Berger, assistant vice president of sales for North America, and T. G. Hughes of London, England, vice president for Europe, Africa and the Middle East, hosted a gourmet dinner meeting for local World Airways execs in the luxurious Wellington Room of Phil Lehr's Steakery, in downtown San Francisco... One of the most popular items at the Hilton Inn, San Francisco International Airport, continues to be the Mini Meeting Service, an entirely new concept in planning and budgeting conferences and meetings for up to 15 persons. The service includes use of a new director's room, color television, all the conveniences of a deluxe guest room, mid-morning coffee break and luncheon conveniently served in the room — all for only $5 per person... Frank Lucchesi, local boy who made good and now manager of the Philadelphia Phillies, dined at the Exposition Fish Grotto, on Fisherman's Wharf, and went in a big way for Rex Sole. So good that Frank promised to bring the entire Phillie squad in when the Phillies play the Giants at Candlestick.

The Exchange Club Crime Prevention Week theme is "Crunch Crime Before It Crunches You."

D.C. Trustee Raps Citizens

Veteran Jefferson Elementary School District trustee Joseph Lewkowicz, announcing that he will not seek reelection, has criticized a "destructive" minority that attends board meetings. Lewkowicz said some citizens "have chosen to attack rather than conciliate and have been more destructive than constructive in their approach to district problems."

He indicated that the experience has marred an "otherwise most rewarding and enlightening 18 years of service."

"The greatest need for this district in the foreseeable future is a group of trustees, administrators, teachers and parents who wish to build rather than destroy," he said.

Lewkowicz has been of Daly City's city treasurer for 11 years.

Restaurant Is Robbed

A lone gunman on Sunday robbed the Taco Bell at 465 El Camino Real, South San Francisco, of $100. Police said the suspect, described as about 19, a white male with blond hair and wearing blue jeans, walked into the eatery as it was closing for the night. According to police reports, the robber, carrying a .45 calibre pistol, forced two employees into a walk-in freezer. He then cleaned out the cash register. When the employees came out of the freezer, the robber was gone, police said.

Tobias Back at Skyline

Dan Tobias, the former student body president at Skyline College who was expelled last year, is back on campus as a special student.

'Ban the Can' Debate Set

"Are you a ban the can or can the ban fan, man?"

According to the South San Francisco Chamber of Commerce that translates into the pros and cons of throwaway bottles and cans.

They will be the topic of the chamber's monthly luncheon February 24 at the Starlite Hofbrau, 151 South Spruce.

Tobias was admitted for the fall term which began Monday and is carrying one course satisfactorily now with another to be added said a college spokesman.

He is ineligible for any student body office and also is ineligible for student scholarship funds. All of his work last semester was expunged from the records, it was reported.

Tobias was removed from school when it was learned that there was a discrepancy in his past college enrollment records. He petitioned for return last semester but his ouster was upheld by a college committee.

Tobias was the central figure in dispute over using the American flag as a pin cushion in the student body office when he was student president.

County Faces Possibility of Two Idle Campuses

By JOHN HORGAN

THERE IS A specter haunting the citizens of San Mateo County.

It is the possibility of two college campuses, both of them built in the last four years, lying fallow at either end of the county.

They encompass a total of 242 acres of land. They are worth about $25 million. But they are both deserted.

They may stand there in the damp fog of San Bruno and the pastoral calm of the Redwood City hills with nothing but skeleton staffs of maintenance men to keep their vital parts workable. It will cost about $250,000 per year to keep those schools from deteriorating.

Second of a Series

These campuses could be mute reminders that the citizens here had refused to keep them in operation through their defeat of a March 2 tax override of 11 cents.

This depressing portrait of futility may seem somewhat far-fetched, but this is precisely what will happen if the people do indeed decide to vote down that March 2 tax.

Instead of three schools, the San Mateo County Junior College District will find itself down to one campus (in San Mateo). It has been estimated that as many as 17,000 full and part-time students will not be able to attend a local college because of a lack of funds on the part of the district.

Officials both within the JC system and without, have urged retaining the three-campus set up.

Their argument is mainly devoted to proving that, contrary to complaints from certain segments of the populace here, there is little evidence of waste and inefficiency in their program.

To begin with, CSM, though devoted to serving the diversified needs of all kinds of students in the county, has maintained a relatively low cost per student when compared to other JC districts in the state.

As of 1969-70, CSM was able to educate its 25,000 day and night students at just under $902 per student. That figure represents a 40 per cent rise over three years.

It must be pointed out that about 40 per cent of CSM's curriculum is devoted to the teaching of vocational-technical courses, which, for the county's business community, are regarded as mainstays of the school's academic picture.

These programs are among the most expensive in the curriculum.

Vocational-technical courses are among the most expensive because of the equipment involved. At CSM, for example, the radio and television department features some of the best and most modern equipment at the junior college level in the country. The Peralta District in the East Bay, for example, had a per student cost of $1,234 for the last fiscal year. That district is laden heavily with vocational-technical programs.

Another reason for CSM's figure of about $902 is that its two new campuses are still growing to maturity. Until they begin to reach maximum usage, it is expected that costs will continue to rise. The current fiscal year's per student cost is estimated at $1,013.

A neighboring JC district,

Foothill, had a relatively low cost per student during the last fiscal year. That two-campus system was educating at a cost of $783 per student.

But, according to CSM Business Manager Matt Fasanaro, Foothill too is finding the educational future to be rather bleak.

According to him, both De Anza and Foothill colleges have reached the saturation point. A third college is needed. But land in Santa Clara County (as it is in this county) is expensive. The Foothill district has reached the end of its taxation powers and faces the future with increasing concern.

In addition, its lower per student cost is caused by its comparative lack of emphasis in the vocational-technical area, Fasanaro said.

Foothill's major thrust is in the liberal arts and other transferable courses field, he noted. CSM was below the Bay Area unit cost average of $914 as well. In addition, it is estimated that local state colleges are spending an average of about $1,300 to $1,500 per student.

The University of California at Berkeley's unit cost is estimated to be about $2,100.

Further, the unit cost of educating the county's high school students in the Jefferson, San Mateo and Sequoia high school districts during the last fiscal year has been equated at about $1,152, according to a study made by CSM.

Thus, of all four forms of public education (except at the grammar school level) available to county young people, the junior college district emerges as perhaps the most economical in terms of dollars spent per student — if such a comparison can be validly made.

The Peninsula Manufacturers Association, an organization which embraces corporations from San Mateo County and Santa Clara County, has endorsed the CSM position.

As a result of a study made by a subcommittee of the Association, the group's Board of Directors has stated:

"In a review of other junior college tax rates in the Bay Area, the San Mateo Junior College District was found to be very comparable, especially in view of their excellent and above-average vocational education program. Their district tax rate is the lowest among all community colleges in the Bay Area."

In addition, PMA has asked its members to take an active part on promoting the passage of the March 2 override.

Former Head Says Measure Vital

DR. JULIO BORTOLAZZO left his mark on the San Mateo County community during his dozen years as president of College of San Mateo.

He has been credited with being primarily responsible for the junior college system here which today serves more than 25,000 citizens of the county.

But Bortolazzo is worried. He is concerned because he sees the very real possibility that the county's taxpayers, those citizens who were loyal to the JC district for so long, may be just plain tired of shelling out cash — not just to the junior college, but to all the other public agencies which yearly take those huge bites out of his income.

"It is imperative that the people in San Mateo County pass this tax measure," he said this week from his Santa Barbara home.

"The people cannot afford not to pass it," he continued. "We need more education today, not less. We must meet the challenges of the future. This tax election is surely one of the ways to meet it."

Bortolazzo, who left CSM in 1968 to take a similar position in the San Joaquin Delta College District, is regarded as an expert on the troubles of junior colleges.

Currently, he is a consultant on problems of two-year institutions. He has been involved in 18 bond issues during his 24 years as an educational administrator and he has won 17 of them. His only defeat came here at CSM by 1,100 votes.

He is no stranger to what ails the JC system.

It is for these reasons that Bortolazzo is convinced that the college he left more than two years ago is facing one of its gravest hours.

"San Mateo County has no alternative but to pass it," he said. "You have there three of the most outstanding junior colleges in the entire nation. And they got that way because they are good community colleges."

Bortolazzo left CSM in 1968 because he said he did not want to be the chief administrator of a multi-college without any direct relationship to one single campus.

He left CSM "reluctantly" that year, he said.

"My heart and soul are still at the College of San Mateo," he exclaimed.

"Those 12 years at the college were the greatest of my professional career. I have always been impressed with the sophistication and intelligence of the people in San Mateo County. I feel I must urge all my friends and colleagues in your area to pass the March 2 issue."

"Every effort ought to be made to pass it. It means a great deal to all of us who have been associated with the college. Philosophically, it ought to be done. I must emphasize again that CSM is rated among the finest junior colleges in the country."

In talking about his days at the school, Bortolazzo noted that his most important accomplishments were assistance in the development of the school's 25-year master plan (which was promulgated in 1957 and revised in 1961) and the planning and building of the institution's three campuses — and the purchase of a fourth campus location of the Coastside.

But, the 55-year-old educator was quick to add that, far from being strictly a college of mere bricks and mortar, CSM became a place where programs were the key to good education.

"The important thing to understand as you develop colleges," he said, "is that you must develop programs along with them. Those were carefully developed at the College of San Mateo. Now, these programs are ranked among the best in the nation."

"Look at some of the vocational-technical courses which are offered at the college," he went on.

"At CSM you have aeronautics, engineering, radio and television, cosmetology and a host of others. This area was weak when we began to build them up in 1956. The community education program is one of the outstanding ones of its kind. I'm proud of the progress minorities have made at CSM."

"Buildings in themselves are not an end," he said. "The keys are programs, teachers, staff and your board of trustees."

"It would be a shame to see it all wither and die if March 2 fails."

Youth Suffers Pill Overdose

A 14-year-old Brisbane boy was in good condition at Mary's Help Hospital today after taking an overdose of sleeping pills.

Brisbane police suspect the victim, Michael Perry Cangson, swallowed 13 second pills. Mrs. Cangson discovered her son's condition and called police about 2 a.m. this morning.

Two San Francisco boys — ages 15 and 16 years old — are suspected of giving Michael the pills.

They are the object of a police search today in connection with the pills and for allegedly attempting to rape a 12-year-old girl in a Brisbane schoolyard earlier last night.

Hearing Set on Drug Charges

Felony narcotics charges against Daniel B. Figoni, 18, and Timothy M. Dekle, 19, will be given preliminary hearing in Municipal Judge Thomas B. Caldwell's Central Judicial District Court February 18.

Judge Caldwell yesterday continued bail at $15,000 on Figoni, and at $5,000 on Dekle.

Both were arrested in Millbrae Wednesday allegedly after selling 2000 LSD tablets to a pair of undercover deputy sheriffs and possessing marijuana, second and amphetamines.

Burglars Take Three Cycles

Burglars escaped with more than $2,000 in merchandise, including three motorcycles, from Comarota Motors, 1776 El Camino Real, San Bruno, during the weekend.

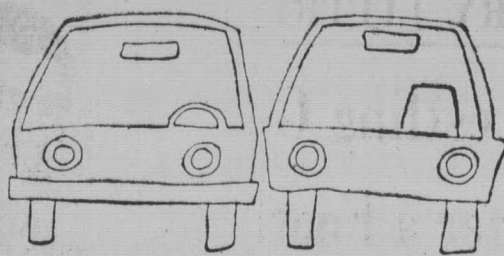

Police said entrance was gained by breaking a skylight and dropping to the floor. Taken in addition to the cycles were motorcycle parts and master keys, police said.

Incumbents Seek Posts

Two incumbent members of the Millbrae School District board of trustees have filed for re-election. Both have been presidents of the board.

They are Theodore Dimitre, a Millbrae resident since 1953, active in Boy Scout and Millbrae youth activities. He has two children attending schools in the district, and another attending Capuchino High School. Also filing is Dr. Larry L. Foster, an associate dean of the graduate division and associate professor of geography at San Francisco State College.

Wrestling Goes After a Foothold

WHAT ARE THE MYSTICAL ingredients that go into making up a fanatical following of a high school sports? That intriguing question has puzzled many coaches and fans alike. We dwelled upon it last week when we noticed that the Mid-Peninsula League wrestling championships had been switched to College of San Mateo this Saturday for a hoped-for overflow crowd.

The sport of wrestling finds itself in a rather peculiar position in the prep ranks. A major sport with fanatical followings throughout all of the midwestern states, it still has not caught on in local areas. Why are baseball, basketball and football able to maintain constant holds upon the populace regardless of geographic locations?

One coach believes that wrestling is just now entering its puberty stage — just out of the infant stage but not quiet ready to assume a major roll in the high school sports scene. "Acceptance is being gained but it is a very slow process," he noted. "We do have quite a few obstacles to overcome."

One of the major obstacles would have to be fan association with the sport. In baseball, basketball and football, for example, parents and fans can watch a youngster from the time he is seven and eight years of age. Baseball has its Pee-Wee, Midget, Pony, Babe Ruth and other such leagues for the young before they progress into junior high, high school, junior college and university action. Basketball and football have similar programs all designed to keep the sport and the youngsters in front of the public.

But in wrestling, save for a few junior high tournaments, the athlete all of sudden appears in high school and pretty much disappears after that. If he is very good maybe he'll wrestle at a college but, in this part of the United States, even that level goes virtually unnoticed. And, unlike the other sports, there is no professional goal every wrestler can aspire towards. Mention professional wrestling and everyone gets the idea of the Mad Molester doing a Body Bomb on the Alaskan Ghoul.

"That's another problem we face," the coach continued. "Getting people to know the difference between the professional exhibitions and the real sport. We wish the pros didn't even use the term wrestling at all."

The major sports also have that fan-appreciated area known as statistics. They can mull over batting averages, shooting percentages, or pass completions. Aside from won-lost records and number of pins wrestling doesn't offer that kind of diversion. But the sport is an exciting one. It is one that can do nothing but grow more popular as time goes along.

The crowds at most matches exceed those of any baseball game. Mills, Crestmoor and San Mateo High Schools draw around 350-400 fans per meet with that number shooting skyward in the finals. So take advantage of the MPL finals this weekend. If you've never seen a high school wrestling match watch the best the league has to offer at CSM this Saturday.

CSM Golfers in Tourney

The College of San Mateo golf team took to the familiar Peninsula Golf and Country Club links on Tuesday, attempting to better their second-place standing in the annual West Valley Invitational Golf Tournament.

In Monday's opening round, played at the new Villages Golf Course in East San Jose, the Bulldogs came in with a 143 total to trail leading Menlo College by one stroke. Also in with a 143 score was San Jose, while host West Valley College carded a 149 total.

Scott Driscoll and Roger Maltbie, both of San Jose, shared medalist honors with 74s over the par 72 course. Leading the Bulldogs were Chris Gibson and Paul Giffin, both of whom carded 78s, and John Bitter with a 79.

Lions Take Track Title

The Millbrae Lions track team, which will compete Saturday in the Athens Invitational indoor meet, tuned up for that competition Sunday by winning the Pacific Association AAU winter championships.

Paced by Marilyn King and Ann Christoff, the county lassies scored 203 points to overwhelm Will's Spikettes (111) and the Sacramento Road Runners (26).

Miss King won the high jump at 5-0, took the long jump with an 18-foot leap, finished first in the 60-yard hurdles, and also ran on a winning 880 relay team. Miss Christoff scored an upset triumph over Kathy Hammond in the 220 with a mark of 25 seconds flat, while the Lions' Linda Langford won the discus at 154-10.

Few Hurts Healed at UBAC Meet

By GEORGE GOLDING

Few wounds were healed on Monday in a meeting of United Bay Area Crusade executives and leaders of hundreds of the Bay Area charity agencies.

The session at Bank of America's big world headquarters building in San Francisco was called by UBAC President Jerome W. Hull, after many of the agencies for whom UBAC collected $17 million last year had loudly complained of budget cuts recently allotted to them by the Crusade as part of a "new directions" campaign.

More than 300 service agency leaders attended, filling the soft leathered seats and lining the acoustically silent walls, even sitting on the red-carpeted floor. The accoutrements of the room did not soften their words.

Percy Steele, black leader of the 68-member San Francisco Association of Executives of UBAC Affiliated Agencies, and spokesman for the 51-member East Bay Association as well, opened an assault on the budget-cutting trend.

Recognizing the need for change, he said, and recognizing that many who are outside United Crusade want inside, the decision by UBAC to start the "new directions" campaign was made without conferring with the agencies which formed the Crusade.

Steele asked for United Crusade to take a careful look at itself, to probe its administration of agency relationships, and to check on its budgeting procedures.

He asked whether the 1967 "agency agreements" which spell out the contractual arrangements between United Crusade and each member agency "remain in force, or whether they have been abrogated."

Steel asked for setting of financial goals for the Crusade, before the drive begins each year, and said the budgets should be worked out beforehand so donors would know where their money was going.

The depth of the growing divisions in United Crusade directions was revealed by UBAC President Hull, Budget Chairman Lawrence Bolling, Past President Robert Harris, and Executive Vice President James Mergens.

All refused to back down from the "new directions" position that money must be taken "off the top" of the collected funds, and allotted to new types of services.

They said the appeals of 59 member agencies were still being heard, and hearings would continue for another month. Until then, no specific changes in the "new directions" budget allotments will be announced.

Several other speakers, representing agencies from San Mateo, Alameda, and Marin Counties, asked for specific changes in United Crusade procedures, or made specific charges.

One spokesman for the Salvation Army said the Crusade's general budget committee had not followed the recommendations of a smaller committee which had interviewed the Salvation Army, and asked whether a budget appeal panel would be listened to.

Others stated that UBAC's only function should be to collect money for the member agencies which formed it.

"Oh, no," replied Hull, Bolling, and other UBAC leaders. "We are a public charity, we must respond to the public," Bolling said.

Two-Year Junior College Has a Community Purpose

There is a major difference between the purposes of the four-year college of university and the community junior college.

Briefly, the community JC is dedicated to improving conditions in the immediate area it serves. The four-year institution is not necessarily so oriented.

And one of the ways it does this is through its vocational-technical training courses.

The College of San Mateo currently exposes more than 80 per cent of its total student body of some 25,000 to these courses in one form or another, according to Associate Dean of Instruction Jack Michie.

About 40 per cent of the student body is involved full-time in those courses, Michie said.

The range of jobs involved in the school's vocational-technical curriculum is broad. It includes: aeronautics, nursing, dental assistance, entertainment (radio and television), engineering (all types), welding, drafting, manufacturing, police science, secretarial instruction, computer and data processing instruction and a host of others.

"These programs give our students a real earning capacity," Michie said. "Most of our students work part-time, many in the very fields they are studying in. Most of our classes run full. But, sometimes, industry sucks off students before they complete their studies because of the demand for their services."

"If anyone is serving the community, these young people are," he continued. "When they leave CSM, they get jobs in industry and they become part of the taxpaying citizenry too."

Michie noted that many students declare their intention to major in liberal arts when they first arrive on the college campus, but, for any number of reasons, they turn to vocational-technical skills in the end.

"You find these classes are filled with kids working hard and being equipped to earn a living," Michie concluded.

D.C. Man Is Wounded

A special officer was hit in the shoulder by a shotgun charge when he exchanged fire with three young men who were reported in good condition today.

Lawrence Heap, 43, of Daly City, on duty protecting a Grove Street building, was hit Saturday night after he heard shots from an apartment building around the corner.

Heap, wearing a badge and uniform, said he saw three young men run around the corner and then open fire on him.

Heap said he fired six .38 revolver shots in return and believed he might have hit one of the fleeing men.

Heap made his way to a nearby fire station where firemen gave him first aid treatment.

Police said later that the three men apparently had been pushing bell buttons in the apartment house lobby. Officers said the men fired several shotgun blasts into the lobby walls before they ran out.

Police Seek

Theft Suspect

Daly City police and Federal Bureau of Investigation agents were pressing their search today for Harry Kimo Vaba suspect in the attempted "bomb scare" holdup of a Daly City bank Monday.

Vaba is wanted by law enforcement officers in connection with a similar holdup in San Leandro last week.
